

JAPANESE ATTACK BALI, LAND TROOPS AT TIMOR; DEFENDERS TAKE HEAVY TOLL OF INVASION FORCES

China May Give Plane Bases to U.S.

Major Gen. Stillwell May Enter Close Association With Kai-Shek for Allied Cause
Arsenal Planned
China Will Become Back Door to India for All Light Arms

Chungking, Feb. 20 (AP)—Hope for a Chinese counter-offensive to gain air bases for United States planes within striking distance of Japan was voiced by informed quarters today as a result of the imminent visit of Major General Joseph W. Stillwell on a mission for President Roosevelt.
While the original White House announcement of February 9 said merely that the former Peiping military attaché would visit China following a talk with the President, informants at the center of the Chinese war effort believed Stillwell would enter close association with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek on war planning.
The possibility of such a counter-offensive and the announcement that the problem of transportation between India and China had been satisfactorily solved, despite the Japanese threat to the first rail link of the Burma road, stimulated optimism.

Japan's vulnerability to China-based air attack is illustrated by the fact that the Japanese-held island of Formosa, a concentration point for Tokyo's southwest Pacific offensive, lies a scant 100 miles off the East China coast. Other parts of the island empire are considerably further but within easy bomber range.

Large Number of Planes
A government spokesman declared only three days ago that the United States had promised to send China large numbers of planes. He spoke of the need of vigorous offensive action by the United States.

Authorities confidently expect India not only to become China's back door, replacing Rangoon, but an immediate arsenal for China in all but heavy equipment.
Meanwhile, Chinese intelligence reports indicated the possibility of a fourth battle for Changsha, scene recently of a great defeat for the Japanese.

These advances said that 60,000 fresh Japanese troops were concentrating at their Yochow base, north of the Hunan provincial capital, from which the previous three campaigns were launched.

The Chinese, however, were confident that a fourth Japanese drive there would bring only a fourth defeat for the enemy.
It is generally expected that Stillwell will cooperate with Chiang in formulation of a grand counter-offensive plan at the same time supervising the accommodation and distribution of planes in China.

It is pointed out that apart from Russian territory, China offers the only ready bases for attacks on Japan proper.
Stillwell enjoys a high reputation among his Chinese friends some of whom express the belief that he may earn a reputation in modern China comparable to that of the American General Frederick Townsend Ward and the British General Charles George Gordon in the 19th century.

Hearing Is Postponed
London, Feb. 20 (AP)—The hearing of Gordon Cummins, 28-year-old R.A.F. leading aircraftman, charged with murder for the Jack-the-Ripper slayings of three women, was postponed today until March 12. Cummins was charged Tuesday with the mutilation-killing of Mrs. Margaret Florence Lowe, 43; Mrs. Doris Jouanne, 32; and Mrs. Evelyn Gately, 30.

Oil Delivery Plan Is Announced by Coordinator Ickes

System Is Intended to Give All Equal Chance to Get Dwindling Supply, Office Says

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—A system to restrict fuel oil deliveries to homes, industries, and for commercial purposes in the east was announced today by Petroleum Coordinator Ickes, in the face of fast diminishing stocks resulting from tanker sinkings and diversion to war purposes.

Intended to spread the available supplies so that consumers may share equitably, the plan, to become effective immediately, provides:

No marketer shall deliver fuel oil to any consumer for uses other than for domestic heating if that consumer's stock of fuel oil is in excess of the amount he would normally use during the ensuing 14 days.

If, however, a consumer's stock drops to or below the amount he would normally use in the next 14 days, the marketer will be permitted to sell or deliver an amount of fuel up to but not exceeding the capacity of a single tank car or other transportation unit normally used in making deliveries to the consumer, or an approximate two weeks supply whichever quantity is the smaller.

Similar provisions govern deliveries by marketers to resellers.
In the case of consumers using fuel oil for domestic heating, no delivery may be made if the consumer's stock exceeds 20 percent of the capacity of his fuel tank. When or if the consumer's stock

3 Senators Urge Coast Defenses

Walsh, Byrd, Johnson Follow Stimson's Assertion With Demand for Protection
U-Boats Reported

Attacks Damage 2 Ships Off Trinidad; Aruba Is Raided

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Three influential senators demanded today that adequate provisions be made for defense of American coastlines.
Senators Walsh (D-Mass.), Byrd (D-Va.) and Johnson (R-Calif.) urged this protection despite an assertion by Secretary of War Stimson that dispersal of forces to halt enemy coastal raids might retard offensives elsewhere.

A concrete indication that such offensives might develop sooner than generally expected was contained in the latest advice from the Netherlands East Indies.

The army said last night that a formation of 16 American P-40 pursuit planes intercepted 25 heavy Japanese bombers and two fighter planes which flew over Soerabaja, Java, and destroyed five bombers and one fighter. One American plane was shot down but the pilot was saved.

This was the first report of a considerable American fighter force—of squadron strength—being in action over Java. It was accompanied by a navy statement that an American submarine had sunk a 5,000-ton cargo ship in the East China Sea.

Submarine Forays
But the enemy likewise had news of submarine forays in the Caribbean. New U-boat attacks damaged two ships off Trinidad. However, U-boats failed to set fire to the huge oil refineries on Aruba in the raid and the submarine attacking that Dutch oil port may have been sunk by U. S. bombers.

Walsh, chairman of the Senate naval affairs committee, told reporters that while nothing should be done to interfere with far-reaching military strategy, "in adequate" coast defenses ought to be strengthened speedily.

Declaring that to follow the course charted by Stimson meant "doing nothing to protect ourselves," Johnson said he could see no reason why "some of the strength we have yielded so generously to Europe cannot be diverted to our own shores."

Byrd said he felt that the American people ought to be defended from attack to the extent that is necessary, although he was willing to leave the disposition of forces up to the military departments.

Secretary Stimson told a press conference yesterday this country could expect attacks "all along our coasts and other places" similar to the Axis submarine forays on Aruba Island in the Dutch West Indies.

He said it was likely that "pressure" would be exerted by thoughtless persons "to scatter American forces to meet such attacks. Such a course, he declared, would be the surest way he knew of losing the war. What this country needed to do, he continued, was to mass its forces to carry the war to the enemy.

Red Star Predicts Nazis Will Collapse This Year

Paper Also Says War Will Be Determined by Resources, Army Reserves
Cabinet Changed

Churchill Cuts His Cabinet to Seven Men in Shakeup

(By The Associated Press)
Russia declared today that her great winter offensive was rolling on unchecked, crushing German counter-attacks with bloody losses, and the Soviet army newspaper Red Star confidently predicted the collapse of its armies this year.

Asserting that this fighting coalition of the United States, Britain and Russia far surpassed Germany in both resources and manpower reserves, Red Star declared:

"Economic resources will mean the final decision. The help we are receiving from our allies is growing continuously."
Red Star said that Hitler already had lost 6,000,000 men in Russia, and that he could not replenish his manpower.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill countered the storm of criticism over British reverses in North Africa and the Far Pacific by "stream-lining" his war cabinet in a shake-up in which the Dynamic Sir Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Moscow, emerged as the outstanding new figure.

The cabinet was reduced from nine to seven members.
Oliver Lyttelton, known to Britons as "one of Winston's bright young men," became minister of state in charge of production. He had been in the war cabinet as minister of state for the Middle East.

Three veterans of the inner circle criticized for reverses capped by the loss of Singapore last Sunday stepped out.

The BBS in an early morning broadcast put on the air a message from Sir Stafford directed to German workers in which he said Soviet industry had been placed on a 100 per cent war basis and "every English worker is determined to do his part to crush Adolf Hitler."

"Between Hitler and his certain defeat there stands today nothing but the (Nazi) spring offensive," he said.

Stripped of war cabinet rank in the shakeup were:

Police Might Add Plain Clothes Unit
Definite Action Not Taken by City Board Toward Move, However

Although it appears to be generally known throughout Kingston that the Board of Police Commissioners for several months have been considering a plan of using at least four of the patrolmen of the police force to serve as plain clothes detectives, no definite action has been taken as yet it is said.

If any of the regular patrolmen are assigned to the position of plain clothes detectives it will mean, of course, that additional patrolmen will have to be appointed.

Dangerous fires, twisted rails and broken and precariously hanging coaches hampered rescuers at the scene where the northbound Sun Queen and the southbound Orange Blossom Special, tourist trains, crashed head-on seven miles south of West Palm Beach, killing three and injuring 42.

31st Infantry Is Given High Praise For Heroic Fights

Tradition of Valor Among Veterans, Recruits Is Upheld; Paved Way for Bataan Stand

By CLARK LEE
With the 31st Infantry in the Field on Bataan Peninsula, Feb. 19 (Delayed) (AP)—Here's a part of the story of "America's Foreign Legion"—The 31st United States Infantry—and its heroic nine-day battle against the Imperial Japanese army at Abucay Hacienda in the Bataan area.

It's a story that glorifies the already sound reputation of this regiment of diverse racial background and equally varied service record. It tells of new deeds of gallantry by oldtimers, veterans of many an Asiatic station, who have been with the outfit since it was organized at Manila August 13, 1916.

It recognizes the spirited conduct of the regiment's younger men, recruits brought from the United States every two years to keep the ranks at fighting strength.

General MacArthur will say that, but for the 31st's grim fight at Abucay, the Japanese might well have split the Bataan defenders before they could assume the strong positions they now hold.

Can Outfight Japanese
The Hacienda battle proved also for the first time that American soldiers can outfight Japanese—but it was a costly proof. The 31st regimental roster is studded with the names of dead, wounded and missing, as well as those of living heroes.

Although, along with the rest of MacArthur's army, the 31st had its share of aerial bombing daily from December 8 on, first actual contact with the Japanese came early in January near Layac Junction, while the Ussaf was still withdrawing into prepared positions on Bataan.

After strong artillery preparation, large forces of Japanese infantry drove against Philippine units on the night of December 31. Lieut. Col. Jasper Brady of Seattle, Wash., gave his Third Battalion a crisp command: "Fix bayonets and attack with a rush."

The battalion rose from positions behind an irrigation wall in a rice paddy and charged across the field. The Japanese scattered and fled.

Russia Asks U. S. For Food Supplies

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Russia is asking the United States for considerable quantities of canned meats, animal fats, vegetable oils, butter and other concentrated foods in addition to the wheat, flour and sugar it already is receiving.

Agriculture department officials in charge of lend-lease foods other than those staples would be furnished the Soviet Union, but that ocean shipping would be perhaps the controlling factor in determining the amount.

Van Teneyk Gets Prison Sentence

Self-Confessed Bigamist Gets 2 to 4 Years in Clinton Prison

George Broeck Van Teneyk, alias Franklin G. Ten Eyck, indicted for bigamy, abandonment of his family and perjury, in county court this morning when his case was moved for trial, changed a former not guilty plea to the charges to one of guilty to the charge of bigamy as indicted. A 2 to 4 year sentence in Clinton State Prison was then imposed.

Hugh Elwyn, appearing for the defendant, moved that the abandonment charge be dismissed at the request of Van Teneyk's wife and District Attorney Haver said his office had no objection to that request. In sentencing Van Teneyk, Judge Conway said that there was no apparent explanation of his acts and although he had investigated the case thoroughly he had been unable to find any excuse for his acts. Such reason he said (Continued on Page Five)

Van Mook Appeal Brings Promise of Initiative by U. S.

Experts Agree, However, There Is Difference in Offensive Warfare, Foolhardiness

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Wide World War Analyst)
The appeal by Lieut. Governor Van Mook of the Dutch East Indies to the United Nations to take the offensive, search out the enemy and fight, has been followed by a quick promise of initiative from our own Secretary of War Stimson.

Whether Mr. Stimson was replying to Van Mook doesn't appear, but the Secretary made his statement in reply to criticism which he said had been voiced because of the failure of the United Nations to seize the initiative. However, what matters it that the war secretary declared "we will seize every opportunity for counter-attack and the offensive, and every opportunity for surprise."

That will come as welcome encouragement to the people of this and Allied countries who have been asking (and rather patiently on the whole) how long it will be before the Allies are ready to launch out. The time seems long when there is a piling up of reverses such as are being suffered now in the Orient.

Mr. Van Mook emphasized his appeal by declaring that if the Allies didn't assume the offensive they would risk losing the war. That thesis long has been very generally held by military experts, it being based on the truism that you can't win a war or fair lady by remaining forever on the defensive.

However, while the need of initiative has been apparent, and (Continued on Page Five)

Mysterious Ways Human Mind Controls Health Are Being Charted by Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Wide World Science Editor)
New Orleans, Feb. 20—Some of the mysterious ways in which the mind controls health are becoming legible on the surface of the human body in experiments at the Tulane University School of Medicine.

They are detected with new instruments which measure unseen surface movements and changes. A new laboratory has been equipped, including a sound-proof, air-conditioned, restful room where a person may read, visit, be happy or worried, while remote control devices in another room record the significant surface changes of the body.

The project is directed by William A. Sodeman, M. D., and George E. Burch, M. D.

Although the instruments read only what occurs at the surface, their soundings are far more than skin-deep. They record the action of the peripheral vascular system—the network of billions of capillary channels near the surface carrying blood and other fluids. Blushes and pallor are familiar effects in this vascular system.

More interesting are the unseen things already found at Tulane and at the Rockefeller Institute by Dr. Burch in cooperation with Doctors A. E. Cohn and Charles Newman.

Toes, fingers and ear lobes continually are slightly expanding and contracting. There are about 70 changes a minute due to heart-

Warships, Subs Attack Japanese

Allied Planes Score 3 Direct Hits on Jap Cruisers, Transports at Bali
Bataan Is Ablaze

Heavy Fighting Rages in Philippines From Fixed Positions

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)
Japan's sea-borne invasion armies stormed at the eastern gateway to Java today, attacking the storied island of Bali and landing troops on the jointly owned Dutch-Portuguese island of Timor farther to the east.

"Vital points on Bali have been destroyed," an N.E.I. communique said tersely.

"Strong action is being taken against landings which the enemy is carrying out."

Dispatches from Batavia said the defenders were exacting a heavy toll as Japanese landing parties swarmed ashore on the gleaming beaches of Bali amid a hail of machine-gun bullets, bombs and shells.

The Dutch high command said allied warships and submarines attacked the Japanese invasion armada around Bali last night, adding:

"Further particulars are lacking as no complete report has yet been received."
United Nations headquarters said allied planes smashed heavily at the invaders, scoring three direct hits on one or more Japanese cruisers, two direct hits on transports, and eight "near misses" on a destroyer.

"There were also direct hits with lighter bombs on a cruiser and a transport ship," the communique said.

Four Japanese fighter planes were shot down in the attack, without loss to the allied defenders.

The communique further reported that five Japanese bombers and five fighting planes were shot down in air battles over the big Dutch naval base at Soerabaja, Java.

Bali lies across only a mile-wide channel of water from Java, the heart of the Indies and headquarters of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's United Nations command in the Far Pacific.

A bulletin from N. E. I. headquarters said Dutch troops were fiercely resisting the invaders on Bali, but details were lacking.

The assault completed a half-moon arc of Japanese bases threatening Java from the north, extending from lower Sumatra on the west, thence through Borneo and Celebes islands to Bali on the east.

Imperial Tokyo headquarters said that Japanese troops, protected by the guns of warships, landed at dawn on the mountainous 300-mile-long island of Timor. The landings were executed near Dilli and Koepang, respectively the Portuguese and Dutch capitals.

Tokyo made no mention of resistance, but Australian and Dutch troops were known to have occupied the Portuguese section of the island last December to combat such an assault.

Rich in gold, copper, gypsum and petroleum, Timor lies at the eastern tip of the Dutch Indies archipelago, only 450 miles northwest of Darwin, Australia.

Carried Out in Strength
A Dutch bulletin said that the Japanese landing on Bali, home of 1,200,000 Indonesians, was carried out in considerable strength.

Conceivably, American troops may be helping to man the eastern ramparts of Java against an imminently expected attack on that major citadel of the Indies if the Japanese succeed in overrunning Bali. Aneta, the Dutch news agency, disclosed yesterday that American soldiers and other foreign reinforcements had arrived.

In the Philippines, General Douglas MacArthur reported that fighting from fixed positions raged along the entire Bataan Peninsula front and that Japanese planes were dropping incendiary bombs behind the American-Filipino defense lines.

How much longer General MacArthur's out-numbered troops could hold on was problematical, but apparently the Japanese had not yet started a climactic, all-out assault.

In the battle of Burma, British imperial troops were reported holding firmly in positions along

Army Planning For Expansion of Military Police

Plans for expansion and further training of the newly organized Corps of Military Police, charged with the fulfillment of numerous functions both with the field forces of the army and at home, in the zone of the interior, were announced today by the War Department.

In addition to its normal duties of traffic control and police work, the Corps of Military Police, operating under the supervision of the provost marshal general, Major General Allen W. Gullion, will form prisoner of war escort companies, corps area service companies, special companies for the detention and care of enemy aliens, and a large number of military police battalions for the zone of the interior.

It is estimated that 51 new battalions will be needed for the zone of the interior alone. These battalions will be placed at the disposal of corps area commanders, who are responsible for their use in emergencies such as fires, floods, strikes, riots and for guarding vital defense plants or installations against sabotage.

Officers for these battalions will be drawn from the regular army, from the Officers Reserve Corps, and from among World War officers who qualify on the score of physical condition and previous experience. Enlisted men will be obtained through the regular channels of Selective Service, and from the ranks of the army. All members of the battalions are regularly uniformed troops. They are as much liable to overseas service as the troops of any other branch of the army. They have no connection with the state guards which were organized following the induction of the National Guard into the federal service.

Each battalion assigned to the zone of the interior will be commanded by a lieutenant colonel, and will operate directly under the command of the corps area commander. The provost marshal general, however, exercises the same sort of supervisory command over all branches of the corps as the chief of infantry, for example, exercises over all infantry regiments.

Military police on duty with the field forces will handle vital traffic control and road information, collection of stragglers in combat, collection, custody and disposal of prisoners of war in the theatre of operations, communication of civilians in the theatre of operations, protection of military property and critical points in lines of communication, crime prevention and investigation, enforcement of laws and regulations, protection of troops and civilian population against crimes and excesses, and will generally supervise military and civilian personnel subject to military control.

Prisoner of war escort companies and the companies assigned to guard enemy aliens are now in the process of formation, it was stated. Their duties will be to operate prisoner of war and enemy aliens' camps and enclosures.

Corps area service command military police are assigned to army posts, camps and stations and are concerned with the conduct of military personnel on and off the reservation, traffic control on the reservation, protection of property and the control of civilians entering and visiting reservations, and the operation of the post guardhouse or stockade. They are also trained in prevention of crime and work in close cooperation with civil authorities to this end.

Kiwanis Hears Rev. A. Oudemool Program Was in Honor of George Washington

Speaking before the Kingston Kiwanis Club at the noonday luncheon gathering Thursday at the Governor Clinton Hotel, the program of the day being in honor of the birthday of George Washington, the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of the First Reformed Church, found that the first President of our country had two outstanding characteristics that classify him as a "very eminent and great American," an Olympic figure in the history of the United States. These outstanding characteristics, he said, were "a strong sense of patriotic duty," and "a strong sense of historical continuity."

Speaking of Washington's patriotism, Mr. Oudemool quoted as an example his acceptance of the position of commander in chief of the colonial army in 1776. He said that at that time Washington was an exceedingly wealthy man, owning an estate of 5,500 acres, with 113 Negro slaves, a mill, a two-masted vessel and making large investments in England. He was offered a position at the head of a small, ill-equipped, ill-fed and poorly paid army, whose chances of success were slim. In addition to the people were not united, the speaker said, with "a small minority of those up and down the Hudson real patriots, many of them Tories and the bulk of the people generally indifferent."

Despite all these things, George Washington accepted the thankless task because, as he said in private letters, of his strong sense of public duty.

Another example of Washington's sense of duty was when, against his desires, he accepted the presidency. When asked to serve for a second term he said that it would "entail the greatest personal sacrifice he had ever been called upon to make."

We need men like Washington today, said the Rev. Mr. Oudemool. At this point he referred to the man who during the recent black-out in Kingston refused to turn out his light and to those who in these days of emergency are hoarding articles on which there is a threatened shortage. "There is a lack of real, patriotic duty, today," he said.

Explaining his statement that Washington had "a strong sense of historical continuity," the Rev. Mr. Oudemool said that "he never lived wholly in the present; he viewed history as flowing along like a stream; he was a man of vision and saw the danger of destroying the future in advance."

An example of all this was when at Windsor hill, near Newburgh, he twice refused the crown that was offered to him by the officers of his army, and again in his attitude toward the presidency, he did not think that Washington was a great executive," said the speaker, but he was an eminent statesman, not a politician. "America has too many politicians and too few statesmen today," he added.

The Rev. Mr. Oudemool saw an example of lack of vision in the attitude taken at the close of the first World War, when this country refused to enter the League of Nations. "The present situation never would have arisen if there had been men with George Washington's vision at the end of the World War," he said.

It was seen as essential, even now, to be giving thought to the kind of peace that is to follow, if and when the present world conflict comes to an end. In the introduction to his talk, which generally was acclaimed as a very excellent one, the Rev. Mr. Oudemool spoke of George Washington's close association with this section of the country and his visit to Kingston, noting that he always had a warm spot in his heart for this section, where there were many strong patriots.

He said that he was interested in finding out, if possible, just what the real, flesh and blood, George Washington was like. I do not sympathize with Hughes and the other so-called "debunkers," said the Rev. Mr. Oudemool, but I do feel that the real George Washington was not exactly as the historians and biographers have made him out. Stories gain by the telling, he said and it would have been strange if there had not been accretions and additions to the story of the real Washington in all these years. He then went on to speak of the two great outstanding characteristics which the real Washington exemplified.

American Flag to Be Presented Here Tonight

Legion Commander Stanley H. Dempsey will officiate tonight at a flag presentation ceremony at which the Kingston Post, 150, will be the donors to the city of a large American flag. The presentation will be held in the mayor's office at 7:30.

The color guard, Alfred Messinger, Abe Singer and Joseph E. Sills, will present arms as a first salute to the new flag.

At 8:30 o'clock local Legionnaires will assemble at the Memorial Building, 18 West O'Reilly street for their monthly meeting.

LAUGH AT THE WAR AND LIKE IT—By JACK BENNY

Wide World Features

Women in defense have created quite a problem for me in this emergency. I'm suffering from an attack of Dennis Dayitis prompted by the fact that women now hold important positions in the national defense effort in Southern California.

Before Dennis started going with Bertha, I controlled him like a clock. He mowed the lawn twice a week, sang his song each Sunday and generally behaved like a well-trained tenor.

Now, there's no living with him. And Bertha is the reason. Bertha is a welder at Lockheed. Bertha's biceps make my legs look like priority tooth-picks.

And when Bertha lays down the law to young Dennis Day, my orders immediately take second place. Dennis respects me but he obeys Bertha.

And he thinks I should give Bertha a spot on the show each week to campaign for the rights of the Swing Shift. Bertha claims all radio programs should be moved ahead twelve hours to Swing Shift workers, who knock off around 2 a. m., can hear their favorites.

The thing that grates me is that she's especially interested in starting the plan on Wednesday nights. And any way I try to put two and two together on that one, the answer comes out "Fred Allen."

Women participating in the defense effort have my full approval, but I wish that they'd leave my tenor alone.

Next thing you know, Bertha will have Dennis asking me to pay him each week.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Too Much Poundage
St. Louis—Pvt. Neil McGuire of Jefferson Barracks is a former Michigan Golden Gloves feather-weight boxing champion but he failed to represent the post in that class during a recent tournament.

He made the post team in the 126 pound class, all right, and trained diligently for month. But came weigh-in time and McGuire was dropped.

Army food beat him to the punch—he weighed 146 pounds!

Last Laugh
New York—As an office boy for the New York Times, Walter Sullivan had to carry reporters' copy to the city desk.

Now he is Ensign Walter Sullivan, attached to Third Naval District Headquarters as a censor, and all reporters—even the Times' men—writing stories there have to carry their copy to him for editing.

With Love
Summerland, Calif.—Those giant letters an army flyer spotted on a hillside overlooking Santa Barbara channel weren't the work of a fifth columnist after all.

It was nothing but Joe Nunes. The playful plowman had wound up his day's work with a flourish by furrowing out the letters of his first name.

Today's Tire Story

Dallas, Tex.—Then there was the man who came into L. A. Fultz's store with his wife and three children and said he'd just sold his car because he couldn't get tires.

He plunked down cold cash and bought five new bicycles on the spot. The family pedaled away before Fultz could get their name.

Where's George?
Yukon, Okla.—Flying Cadet Ralph Wilson has mastered the slow roll. Now if instructor George Dale can just catch on.

Dale fell out yesterday when his safety belt came loose. The Cadet got the plane down okay. The parachute took care of teacher.

Man For the Job
Santa Fe, N. M.—For years, Supreme Court Clerk Herbert Gerhart nurtured a rubber tree in the foyer of the court building. It soared to a height of 15 feet under his care and encouragement.

At last, he has been rewarded! "Perhaps I can tap it for a tire or two," beamed Gerhart, as they named him chairman of the county tire rationing board.

HOME BUREAU

Hurley
On Monday afternoon, February 9, a group of women from Hurley met at the home of Mrs. Charles Brandt, at which time the Hurley Home Bureau was organized. Miss Parsons was present and gave an interesting description of the various phases of work covered by the different county units. The following officers were elected: Chairman, Mrs. Henry Battenfeld; vice chairman, Mrs. Catherine Clearwater; secretary, Mrs. Arthur Hamsen; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Ashley. The meetings will be held the last Thursday in each month. The next meeting will be held at 10:30 o'clock on February 26, at the home of Mrs. Brandt, at which time a food demonstration will be given by Mrs. Finger. The business meeting will be at 1:30 o'clock. All women of Hurley interested in this work are cordially invited to join.

Trains Must Keep 80 Per Cent Record Of Being on Time

New York, Feb. 20 (AP)—With the battle between commuters and railroads over a proposed fare increase still unsettled, but in its final rounds, the commuters chalked up a victory today on another score.

This was in the form of a Public Service Commission order issued yesterday directing all railroads operating in the state to maintain an "on time" record of at least 80 per cent.

Meanwhile an early decision by the commission on applications of 11 New York state railroads for permission to boost commutation fares 10 per cent March 1 was expected, perhaps before that date.

Commission Chairman Milo R. Maltbie indicated as much when commission hearings on the applications of the Long Island railroad and the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad ended yesterday.

Under terms of the commission's order for an 80 per cent "on time" record, railroads are allowed five minutes' leeway from timetable schedule before being considered late, and if they fail to meet the requirement they are directed to revise their schedules to provide operating time than can be met.

"Next to safety," the commission said, "there is no greater responsibility of a railroad than to render reasonably dependable service. This the company (the New York Central Railroad, which was used as an example) has failed to do in many instances.

"Complaints regarding the lateness of trains are widespread and it does seem the company has not appreciated its responsibility to its patrons and the public in the establishment of schedules that are so constantly disregarded."

The commission said an investigation of New York Central trains showed an "on time" performance of only 76 per cent from April to November of last year.

"It is little satisfaction," it added, "for the passengers using the trains that are frequently late to know that some other train has a good current record. The argument that if the average for all of the trains is 80 per cent the operation is successful does not please the traveler who has to use the trains with performance of less than average."

"The assertion that the make-up of a train schedule cannot be adjusted because of the connections it has or because it disturbs a competitive advertised train cannot be accepted when the train is late a considerable part of the time."

Blackouts have made night baking in England difficult.

Program Is Recommended
Albany, N. Y., Feb. 20 (AP)—A junior aviation program beginning in the first grade and harmonizing with the campaign to build 60,000 model airplanes in New York high schools this year, was recommended today to all schools in the state. The instruction is of greater scope than elective courses proposed for high schools by bills before the legislature and education department authorities asserted it would stimulate community air-mindedness. Courses will start in September.

Purest Diet Known Is Reported, but Its Taste Is Flat

If You Like Labco Casein Sprinkled With Some Other Mysteries, You Will Get Along

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 20 (AP)—The purest pure food diet ever achieved was reported today in Science, the official American journal, by Lois K. Rogers, L. W. McElroy and George R. Cowgill, Yale.

The food is all synthetic, that is, artificially made. The remarkable part is that on such diets animals have difficulty in reproducing, but on this Yale diet a second generation of mice has been born and lived long into healthy maturity.

This is the first time that has been accomplished. It is important even for those who don't like mice, because such a diet permits scientists to look for the answers to human puzzles about the effects of food on health, length of life, cancer, and all sorts of other questions everyone is asking.

The point about the synthetic diet is that absolutely every bit of stuff in it is known. That is never even slightly true of ordinary diets, even the so-called pure food kinds.

The scientific feeder can change one substance at a time in a synthetically pure diet, and know for a fact that the results for or against good health are due to that change and not to something the farmer, the soil, rain, wind or the grocery boy dragged in.

The Yale accomplishment may come in specially handy just now when dietitians are predicting that Americans will soon have to eat more vegetables and milk, and less meats, because the strong, concentrated foods will go to the fighting men.

The pure Yale diet does not read appetizingly. It is labco casein, cerulose, Osborne and Mendel salt mixture with added zinc carbonate, agar, wheat germ oil and three per cent rice polish filtrate, factor 2. Also cod liver oil concentrate, thiamine, riboflavin, pyridoxine, nicotinic acid, calcium, pantothenate, chlorine, para-amino benzoic acid and inositol.

City Gets New Cold Wave, Low Temperatures

Close to zero weather gripped Kingston last night and during the morning hours of today with the official city thermometer recording a low of 11 degrees above zero at 11 o'clock last night while at 8 o'clock this morning there was a reading of 8 degrees.

While the city thermometer was recording 8 degrees thermometers in other sections of the city were recording zero and two above.

The cold wave arrived in Kingston last night on the wings of a chilling, biting wind that swept through the streets, and made it seem much colder than it really was.

Frederick P. Clark Named Head of Planning Group

Frederick P. Clark, son of Mrs. Grace P. Clark of South Manor avenue, who for five years has been planning director of the State of New Hampshire Planning and Development Commission, has resigned his position to become effective on July 1 when he will become planning director of the Regional Planning Association, Inc., a private organization which serves as a planning agency for metropolitan New York and environs, including New Jersey and Connecticut.

Mr. Clark is a graduate of the Kingston High School where he was manager of the football team and was graduated from Cornell University in 1933. Mr. Clark formerly resided at Tillson and during his residence here was an active member of the local De Molay.

Prior to going to New Hampshire, Mr. Clark was town planner for the Montclair, N. J., Planning Board and served as planning engineer for Fairfield County (Conn.) Planning Association. He was also associate consultant for the New England Regional Planning Commission. During the time he was planning director for the state of New Hampshire he also served as secretary of the State Land Use Board, was a member of the State Land Use Planning Commission, State Marine Fisheries Commission, state committee on Classification of Interstate Streams and was also a member of the New England Drainage Basin Commission.

Separation Granted

A separation has been granted Mary S. Siggelkow of Highland by Justice Harry E. Schirick, following a hearing before the Supreme Court special term. Michael Nardone appeared for plaintiff. The plaintiff charged that her husband, Philip W. Siggelkow, whom she married at Jersey City, N. J., on March 17, 1928, abandoned her and her five children in May 1941 and has failed to return. She also charges cruel and inhuman treatment. The plaintiff is granted custody of the five children and the court directs a weekly allowance of $10 be paid by the defendant to the plaintiff for the support and maintenance of the children.

Mrs. Hooper Tells Of Conditions in Pacific Outpost

Mrs. J. Leon Hooper of Manila, Philippine Islands, was the guest speaker at the weekly church supper and study hour series in the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening, and she gave an interesting talk on conditions prevailing both in Manila and the islands.

The supper was in the nature of a Washington Birthday event with the tables decorated with the national colors. A fine menu was served by a committee of the women of the church, and the supper was followed with the address by Mrs. Hooper.

She called attention to the fact that the island group is comprised of some 7,000 islands, the largest of which is Luzon on which the city of Manila stands. Since this country took over the islands at the close of the Spanish American War in 1898 there has been a great advance in culture and education in the islands.

Mrs. Hooper said that English was now spoken throughout the islands, and no matter on what part of the islands one might find themselves they were always sure of finding some native able to speak and understand English.

The speaker said that it was an interesting fact that the natives of the islands were very friendly with the Chinese with whom they intermarry, but that none of the natives had any use for a Japanese.

The work of the Presbyterian Church in the Philippines was also told by Mrs. Hooper, who said one of the most interesting churches in the islands was that established by the Presbyterian Church among the colony of lepers.

Mrs. Hooper has served in the Philippine Islands under the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions since 1916. Hers has been a crowded life in a great city where the church has been making such rapid growth, coupled with an equally rapid advance of the people along cultural and intellectual lines, all of which make imperative demands upon missionary time and energy.

The final church supper and study hour of the series will be held next Thursday evening in the chapel when a covered dish supper will be served at 6 o'clock, followed by the showing of several movies.

New Regulations Given For Veterans' Hospital

Commander C. B. Skane of Joyce-Schirick Post, No. 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has received the following notices relative to regulations at Veterans' Hospital No. 51, Bronx, New York, where many local people visit friends:

"Effective Monday, January 12, 1942, no foodstuffs (fruits, cakes, ice cream, etc.) or liquids of any kind or description will be accepted or permitted to be received for any patient in this hospital. Also during the present emergency not more than three visitors will be allowed to visit a patient during any visiting day. This, however, will not apply to relatives visiting the seriously or critically ill patients.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 20, 1942

SAFER TO DRIVE HERE

It was safer to drive or walk on the streets of Kingston during 1941 than on the streets of most other cities in the United States, according to figures just released by the National Safety Council, covering 430 communities of 10,000 population and over.

Kingston's one traffic fatality, the same number as in 1940, is equivalent to a rate of 3.5 per 100,000 population, which compares favorably with the 15.2 average rate for the 430 cities, with the New York State figure of 19.7 and with the average rate of other cities of its size group, 25,000 to 50,000 population, which was 13.3 per 100,000.

Automobiles during the year took a toll of 40,000 lives, an increase of 16 per cent over 1940, and the highest on record. The direct economic loss resulting from fatal and non-fatal auto accidents in 1941 is set at $1,800,000,000.

The government's ban on new automobiles and tires will not necessarily improve the situation, the report declares. Against the favorable factor of fewer cars in use will be the fact that motorists will be driving older and less safe cars.

However, the impact and attrition of this war may tend to make us more careful. Then by the time the emergency is over and new cars are available again for whoever has the price, we may have got so used to driving carefully, at a reasonable speed, that we won't slip back into our old recklessness for quite a while.

When peace comes again, we may understand better the value of human life.

MORE SPEED

Haven't we Allies by this time done our share of blundering? Democracies are famous for awkwardness and delay in the early phases of warfare; but in this great, crucial struggle for survival, surely both we and the British have made enough mistakes, and suffered enough tragic losses, to last us for the duration.

We have the necessary resources for big and successful war. We have the courage and patriotism. But we haven't much time. And at this moment time is the most important of all military factors. Japan is winning with speed rather than power.

Mechanization has changed the face and method of war. With planes and tanks, in the air and on the earth, one side can get the jump on another and press home the advantage and win victories that quickly turn the tide.

Where are the Allies' juggernauts of war? The British are making planes and tanks in large and growing quantities, and so are we. There must be many thousands of them available. Why are they not at the front and in the air? And why is not the whole tempo of our war stepped up on the vital fronts? People are asking these questions in Britain and the Empire, and likewise in America.

Planes, tanks and time—these are our weapons. It is time for us democracies to fight as we run, with everything we have.

WHAT JAPAN WANTS

Japan's ambitions are nothing new. As far back as the sixteenth century she had a dictator, Hideyoshi, who aimed to create a huge Asiatic empire including Japan, Korea, China, India, Persia and anything else that might come in handy.

Recently publicity has been given to an alleged plan of General Tanaka, prime minister in 1928, which called for conquering China and crushing the United States. Though this document has been called a forgery, it fits in with what we know of Japanese ambitions.

NOT ALONE

Major George Fielding Eliot, war commentator, warns his fellow-Americans against letting an impression develop in Russia, China and the Dutch Indies that we want to run this war as an Anglo-American enterprise, in which we do the planning and our allies do the fighting and dying.

It would be very unfortunate all round if anything like that happened. And there is danger of such a mischievous impression spreading because Britain and America are, as yet, not ready for big and effective fighting, while the powers referred to are bearing a heavy burden, and holding the defenses of civilization for us as much as for themselves. Even when we are able to bring our full power to bear, it will be wise for us to play our part with becoming humility. We are not fighting alone.

UNKNOWN EXPERTS

General Todt, chief engineer of the Siegfried line and builder of the German defenses in Russia, is dead. To most people his name was unknown. That is true of many experts, military and otherwise. In the first world war the early German triumphs on the Eastern front made everybody acquainted with the name of Hindenburg. Later we came to know that to Ludendorff, his chief of staff, were due most of Hindenburg's achievements. Still later, close students of the war learned that back of both Hindenburg and Ludendorff was Col. Max von Hoffmann, aide and general adviser, and that when he left for other fronts, Ludendorff and Hindenburg did not do so well.

So it may be now. Todt may have left behind some hard-working aide to whom most of his glory should have been credited. Let us not exult too early that Germany's greatest military engineer is dead.

STRONGER FAITH

"Most of our present troubles are due to the fact that few Americans really believe in America," said the Rev. Frederick M. Elliot recently, "in her high destiny that far outsoars any nationalistic ambition; in her spiritual birthright that alone gives value to her material wealth and power; in her ideal of fraternity that makes democracy significant."

Cardinal Newman made famous a simple prayer that may well be uttered by Americans in time of trial: "Lord, I believe. Help Thou mine unbelief!"

With all due respect for the many fine and useful qualities of Eleanor Roosevelt, a lot of us would like to see her camping in the White House for a while, just sitting and knitting.

PHYSICIANS AND HEART DISEASE

Coronary disease kills physicians twice as often as laymen. While coronary deaths have increased 114 per cent among all men over a seven-year period, the increase among physicians is 240 per cent.

I am quoting from an article "Coronary Disease and the Doctor" by Dr. O. P. J. Falk, in the Illinois Medical Journal.

Statistics show that 40 per cent, that is 2 in every 5 physicians are destined to die of heart disease and of that number half will develop a phase of coronary disease or insufficiency.

I have spoken before of the great increase in heart disease in physicians and one naturally wonders why physicians are not more careful about their manner of living. As pointed out some time ago, few physicians die of diabetes because they recognize the symptoms early and by diet and insulin are able to keep diabetes under control.

Why then should more physicians die of heart disease than do laymen or the general public?

As a matter of fact, the reason so many physicians die of heart disease is because their work means an irregular method of living as to eating, sleeping, and exercising.

Now, a young physician is usually able to withstand the demands of a day and night practice and can also withstand the effects of long hours, irregular meals, and the depressing effects caused by very sick or very nervous patients. But as a physician grows older, because he is only human, he tries to fulfill all the obligations of his profession in just as conscientious a manner as when he was younger.

Dr. Falk's suggestions to physicians are that they should make sure of enough rest and sleep every day, taking a warm bath and a hot drink at bedtime.

Further, as the physician advances past middle age he should select his patients and not waste time and energy on high strung, non-cooperative patients as these patients do not justify the effort put forth carrying them along.

A more tranquil and protective philosophy of life might reasonably hope to postpone, if not actually prevent, some of the severe symptoms of heart disease.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

One of the most enjoyable musical evenings that I recall in the days before the first World War in 1918, was attending the concert given by John McCormick, world famous Irish tenor, in Poughkeepsie. A number of Kingstonians made the trip to Poughkeepsie to hear McCormick, making the trip to and from the Bridge City in the steam yacht E. B. Gardner.

McCormick was in rare voice that night, and delighted his audience who filled the opera house to overflowing with singing many encores in addition to his regular program. Included in the encores were a number of songs he had made famous on phonograph records.

I also recall the days when Miss Virginia Loskamp was contralto soloist and choir director at the Rondout Presbyterian Church, a position she filled for many years. Miss Loskamp had a beautiful contralto voice, and while in Kingston gave a number of concerts.

As I recall it she was instrumental in bringing Reinold Werrenrath, world famous baritone, to Kingston in a concert for the Red Cross during the World War. Mr. Werrenrath was and still is a famous concert artist and during his career as a singer has made many fine phonograph records.

Miss Loskamp was also instrumental in introducing Judson House, tenor, to Kingston audiences in the years when he first began to attain fame in the concert world. Mr. House was the possessor of a beautiful tenor voice which he handled with exquisite taste.

In late years Miss Loskamp has been devoting herself to training singers for the concert stage. Many of Kingston's best known singers received their early training from her while she was in Kingston.

Miss Los Kamp, who in the days of before the first World War used to spend her vacations at Woodstock and it was there that she was heard by the late Allan Hammond, for years an active member of the downtown church. Mr. Hammond induced her to sing at some special services in the church, and she created such a favorable impression that she was engaged at the then large salary of $1,000 a year to sing in the church choir.

Absence of heads of families while serving in the army is blamed for a wave of truancy throughout the East Rand of South Africa.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — The efforts to stem the tide of humanity moving toward Washington by warning parasites to get out of town and moving a handful of government agencies to other cities have proved about as effective as trying to bail out the ocean with a sieve. The federal powers-that-be are now preparing to ACT.

The President has ordered a re-survey of personnel requirements for the balance of this fiscal year and the fiscal year 1942-43, on the basis of the new 44-hour work week. He says specifically that every man and woman not absolutely needed must be released for war work. He further has ordered that the Bureau of the Budget personnel set-up, here and in the field to determine the relationship of appropriations to necessary man-hours of work.

Government surveys are a dime a dozen. Under ordinary circumstances, there would be no reason to believe that either of the two mentioned would result in action. But there are important forces bearing down on the present situation. In the first place, there are many indications that the people of the United States—the voters—are fed up with government dalliance, delays, red tape and mismanagement in administration of this war. A few weeks ago and months before that, federal officials were screaming that the civilian population would have to forget "business as usual." Now a preponderance of the congressional and executive mail is stating in no uncertain terms that it is far past the time when elective and appointive officials should have forgotten "government as usual."

Secondly and just as important, because the men who make the laws and administer them are beginning to see it around them everyday, is that Washington is rapidly approaching the saturation point. It will not come because of lack of office space, as serious as that condition has been and still is. It will come because of lack of housing.

As ironical as it may seem—come spring and summer, people with good jobs and money in their pockets may be sleeping in the capital parks because they cannot find homes. Ten years ago, homes were to be had for a mere promise to pay something—almost anything—and people were sleeping in the parks here because they had no jobs.

Already there are trailer towns from Hains Point to the suburbs of Maryland and Virginia. In official circles, there is talk that tent cities will have to come next. (Next—What "Government for War" means to you and the government clerk.)

Income Tax

Your Federal Income Tax

No. 41

AUTOMOBILE DEDUCTIONS

With the number of automobile owners registering in the millions, the question of deductions for the cost of operation and maintenance of a motorcar frequently arises. The purchase price of an automobile, whether it is to be used for business or pleasure, cannot be deducted from gross income. If used for business, it is a capital expenditure; if used for pleasure, it is a personal expenditure—both deductions being expressly prohibited by the income tax law.

Several deductions, however, are allowable in connection with the cost of operation of an automobile used either for business or pleasure. If used exclusively for business, deductions may be taken for the cost of gasoline, oil, repairs, garage rent, amounts paid for insurance, and other necessary operation and upkeep expenses, as well as damages paid for injury to another while the car was being used for business purposes and losses sustained by reason of damage to the car while being used for such purposes, provided such damages and losses are not covered by insurance or otherwise. Depreciation based on the cost of the car and its estimated useful life also is deductible.

Other deductible items, irrespective of whether the car is used for business or pleasure, are sums paid during the taxable year for personal property taxes and municipal taxes, interest on money borrowed for the purchase of a car, and losses by fire or storm or theft, to the extent not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

A loss occasioned by damage to an automobile maintained for pleasure, where such damage results from the faulty driving of the taxpayer or other person operating the automobile, but is not due to the willful act of negligence of the taxpayer, is a deductible loss in the computation of net income. If damage to a taxpayer's automobile results from the faulty driving of the operator of an automobile with which the automobile of the taxpayer collides, the loss occasioned to the taxpayer by such damage is likewise deductible.

Fees paid for automobile inspection and automobile title registration of automobiles used for pleasure are not ordinarily allowable deductions.

Secrecy Will Be Used to Cover Roosevelt Administration as New Legislation Shows

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 20.—The cloak of secrecy that can cover up incompetence and scandal is about to be thrown over the Roosevelt administration's acts so that it will mean a jail sentence for anybody who divulges information which the administration itself does not wish to be made public. Legislation not confined to the war era nor confined merely to government departments or agencies concerned with the conduct of the war has been introduced in Congress at the request of Attorney General Biddle.

While President Roosevelt told his press conference the other day that he didn't know about this bill, it has happened in the past that such disclaimer of responsibility doesn't interfere with the rapid passage of a bill through Congress when the New Deal cabinet members get behind it.

The new bill is the most severe thus far offered in Congress to bring about the complete suppression of all news except that which the heads of departments may wish to have made public. If passed, it may spell the death knell of representative government in America as we have known it for the last century.

Legislation not confined to the war era nor confined merely to government departments or agencies concerned with the conduct of the war has been introduced in Congress at the request of Attorney General Biddle. The provisions of this section are in addition to, and do not supersede other laws.

"Section two: The head of any executive department, independent establishment, or other agency may authorize the disclosure of information in the custody of his department, establishment, or agency to particular persons or classes of persons or to the public generally, the provisions of section one of this act shall not apply to disclosures so authorized."

That's all there is to the bill but it can successfully kill news gathering in Washington for all time because most of the news is customarily gathered from minor officials who would not dare to disclose the affairs of their bureaus for fear they might be divulging the "substance, purport, effect, or meaning of any file, instrument, letter, memorandum etc."

All that the department heads would have to do—and some have tried it in the past—would be to make one rule that no information can be given out except when they themselves authorize it and the policy of suppression would be effective.

If the bill wasn't intended to cover up incompetence and was loosely drawn through sheer inadvertence, then it doesn't speak well for Attorney General Biddle's prestige as a drafter of laws. If the bill was seriously intended to mean what it says, then, indeed, has the Roosevelt administration corroborated the fears so frequently expressed by critics that the nation is being used to convert the American democracy into a totalitarian system under the guise of benevolence and the so-called public interest.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

WE CAN HAVE TIRES

Babson Says Tire Policy Wrong

En Route to Washington, Feb. 20.—During the past two weeks, I have been making a careful study of the tire situation. I am convinced of two things:—(1) The American people can have tires if willing to go without certain other cotton and rubber products. (2) The American people are willing to go without almost anything if they can avoid putting up their cars.

Transportation Is Fundamental

When Washington — on the spur of the moment — says we can't have any more tires for the time being, it is playing with a buzz saw. Transportation is fundamental. It always has existed and is more needed today than ever. Of course, much of it is unnecessary. We all can, and will, cut our mileage 30% to 40% or more. But we all want a car with tires, capable of running if we need it. Furthermore, my guess is that — until Washington gives us time to build buggies and raise horses again — we are going to get tires.

Tires are made mainly of cotton with some rubber and a very little wire. Of cotton, we have a great surplus. By switching spindles from something else we are willing to give up, the fabric could easily be made. There is an enormous amount of wild rubber at the upper waters of the Amazon. It will be expensive to gather this; but it can be gathered and floated down on rafts to Para.

Where We Can Get Rubber

This rubber can then be brought in sailing vessels and old steamers to Tampa, Mobile, New Orleans, and Texas ports where the cotton is. Furthermore, these ports are near the naval stores and asphalt supplies which could be mixed with the pure rubber. Moreover, the South has a surplus of unemployed people who could make tires under proper supervision. In addition to the above, we have a great undeveloped field of "camelback" retreading and capping rubber.

The above facts show that everything is available to make tires except the will on the part of our Washington dictators to let us buy them. Moreover, the methods which I visualize will not in any way interfere with the waging of the war. We will get poorer tires for them; but these "ersatz" tires will enable us to always have a car available to use when necessary. This is a reasonable request.

Is Washington Using Sense?

The American and Canadian people are willing to cut their driving 50%; they are willing to go without other cotton and rubber products in order to have tires. It especially "gets the goat" of American taxpayers to be told they can have no rubber and when going to Washington, see these same dictators getting all the tires they want. The whole affair does not make sense. The present program is very unfair to all concerned.

War Needs Should Come First

This program does not in any way handicap our boys at the front or retard the making of airplanes, tanks, or any other necessary war supplies. We are willing to make all the sacrifices necessary; but we do claim that transportation is entirely different from many other things for which we spend money. In other words, while our Washington dictators are free to reserve the necessary cotton, rubber, asphalt, wire, and everything else needed to win the war, they should be willing to let us people decide what we make with the balance. We, and not the Washington dictators, should decide this latter question.

I have seen the American people in many panics. My first one was in 1893 when Washington thought we would all starve to death because we couldn't get gold even though the West was burning corn. The next was in 1907 when Washington thought we would be unable to ride on trains because of the railroad row between Hill and Harriman.

Panics Start In Washington

Then I remember the panic of 1914 when Washington promised to keep us out of war if we would only make certain sacrifices. But once again we were fooled. Then came the panic of 1929 when we were unnecessarily scared into throwing ten million innocent people out of work just because paper stock prices went off 50% or more. Now Washington is starting a panic on rubber and certain other things. Washington may be right this time, but I am determined not to get scared to death because some young fellows down in Washington cry "Wolf, Wolf."

Let us remember "Pearl Harbor" and realize we must make sacrifices. Let us, however, remember the "Gold Scare" of 1893; the "Railroad Scare" of 1907; the "War Scare" of 1914-1918; and the "Wall Street Scare" of 1929. In each of these cases, if we had just used common sense and had gone about our business we would be infinitely better off today. Let us intelligently "stretch our rubber" to serve fairly all needs.

Van Mook Appeal Brings Promise of Initiative by U. S.

Some experts hold that it already has been too long delayed in instances, the experts also recognized that there is a difference between legitimate initiative and foolhardiness and that that premature offensives often lead to disaster. In other words, while there must be initiative it must come at the right moment. And that can only be determined by the supreme command which has all the facts before it.

But the Dutch official didn't stop with the plea for initiative. He continued with this: "The Japanese are using ships recklessly. I think we could emulate them."

Well, of course, great daring has to be used in war, as this column has been emphasizing, and Hitler has exemplified the value of legitimate gambling time and again. But when you talk about using ships recklessly in a world-wide context, it gives pause for consideration. Probably Mr. Van Mook didn't mean that word "recklessly" literally but rather had daring in mind.

On that evil day of December 10 the British recklessly employed two of their most powerful men-of-war, the new Prince of Wales and the Repulse, to meet the Japanese attack off Malaya—sent these two magnificent war-machines into action without air protection. Result: Both the great ships were sunk by Jap planes, and this loss of sea-power upset the balance and had much to do with altering the complexion of the struggle in the Orient.

Affects All Areas

Then too we must remember that anything done in the air battle of the Pacific affects not only that theatre but the entire structure of the Allied plans for all theatres. Now when the Allies have won this war (as they will) their victory will in my view rest in very large degree on control of the seas. They have temporarily lost domination of the Western Pacific, but they will regain it as the American and British sea-strength continues to increase.

If Hitler once breaks through that British blockade which has been garroting him, and he is able to join hands with his Japanese partner in crime, there's no telling how far the Axis might go. The latest word from Berlin is that the Fuehrer is straining his economic structure to the limit to get ready for the crucial spring fighting.

We have no present guide as to how strong he may emerge when the fighting starts. Most certainly he is girding himself to try to break the Anglo-American domination of the oceans.

That being the case, the Supreme War Council must be the judge of just what risks can or cannot be taken. Figuring out the Allied strategy in this great crisis is no job for amateurs.

McDaniel Reaches Batavia After Week

Reporter Finally Makes Port on Warship

Batavia, N. E. I., Feb. 20 (AP)—C. Yates McDaniel, Associated Press correspondent who was the last American newspaperman to leave Singapore, arrived in Batavia this morning after a hazardous week-long trip in which his ship was bombed and sunk shortly after it sailed from the British base.

He reached Batavia on a British warship after having traveled by lifeboat and native junk, trekked through the interior of northern Sumatra, and finally established contact with Dutch troops which in turn led the party to British forces stationed in North Sumatra. The rest of the journey was made aboard the warship.

The party was under the direction of Captain Henry Steel of the Singapore public relations office and included several other newspapermen.

(McDaniel's last message from Singapore was received at 4:45 a. m., E.W.T. February 12 and said he was on a ship in Singapore harbor, under heavy attack by Japanese planes.)

They gave way before overwhelming numbers of Japanese strongly supported by artillery and aircraft. The enemy succeeded in crossing the river and driving a wedge approximately a mile wide and a half mile deep into the Ussafie lines. Some of the defense units were turned to positions at right angles to the front.

Then Col. Charles Steel Davidson, commander of the 31st, received orders to counter-attack, push the Japanese out of the salient and restore the position, which had been held by a full division.

The regiment moved up under bombing and shelling and prepared to go into action on a mile-wide front while maintaining contact with the division on its right and other Philippine army units on its left.

The attack was launched at 8:15 a. m., with the 31st Second Battalion on the right and its First Battalion on the left. Major Lloyd G. Moffett of Denver led the First Battalion through a deep ravine and up its opposite slope. A 50-yard advance then was made into an uncut tangle of sugarcane, where the Americans ran headlong into a wave of Japanese attacking the exposed left flank of the division.

"Lousy With Japs" The entire field, one grizzled veteran commented later, was "lousy with Japs."

The Second Battalion also pressed forward, slashing paths through the sugarcane and advancing single file in the face of heavy machinegun fire.

Private Elmer P. Bushrig crawled through the rain of bullets in an attempt to rescue a wounded companion. For his bravery, he gave his own life.

The Second's attack, moving inch by inch, covered only 150 yards to the edge of a second ravine by nightfall, but the First Battalion, after its initial brush with the enemy, encountered less resistance.

With Lieut. Col. Edward H. Bowes, of San Francisco, taking direct command, it reached the main Japanese positions on the bank of the Labangan by 4 p. m., closing half of the original gap in the defense lines but leaving a large pocket of enemy resistance on its right rear and flank.

Next morning the Second Battalion, aided by fire support from the First, resumed the attack, driving into the second ravine and up the farther side.

Five times the Americans reached the top, but five times they were driven off by withering machinegun, rifle and mortar fire.

One of the main obstacles was a machinegun nest pouring fire into the ravine from the left. Private Ronald T. Wangberg volunteered to blast it. He crawled close and tossed a grenade but missed, thus exposing his own position. He threw a second grenade, which failed to explode, and then was killed.

beats; 10 to 18 more a minute with breathing; two to four a minute coming from the involuntary nervous system's control over the network vessels.

Further, superimposed on all these are two more rhythms. One takes two or three minutes, the other 30 minutes to an hour. These are due to blood shifting from inside the body toward the outside and back again. They seem to be a massaging effect.

These are all involuntary. But all are modified by the state of mind. Worry, fear, anger and mental effort affect them. Nutrition also plays a part, and here again the mind control steps in to take a hand.

Anything that throws the rhythms out of balance may cause a temporary upset. Chronic upsets lead to impairment of health.

Some persons have large waves of expansion, others small. Some persons' waves are irregular. But every person tends to stick to his own type of pulsation pattern.

Scarcely reded all rhythms. They become quieter. High blood pressure makes the rhythms more irregular.

Baptist Church To Dedicate New Lighting System

On Sunday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, the First Baptist Church will dedicate six new lanterns in the sanctuary of the church. This installation will mark the completion of a year's program of church improvement by the Men's Club of the church and in which the cooperation and counsel of George Low as architect was secured.

Last fall the interior of the sanctuary was redecorated as the first part of the program, which was to be followed by the selection and installation of new lights. Installation of the six lanterns was completed Wednesday of this week by the firm of Carr and O'Reilly of Kingston.

The new lights, replacing the fixtures which were installed in 1914, are of lantern type more than three feet in length over all, and are of Gothic design in keeping with the church architecture. The fixtures were designed and built for the church by George deRis of the J. and R. Lamb Studios, of Tenafly, N. J.

The metal portion of the light is of hand-hammered iron with a Swedish iron finish which varies from black to silver. Two kinds of glass paneling are used in each fixture, the exterior being of light amber cathedral glass which matches the re-decorations recently completed, while the interior is of flash-opal glass which is manufactured in England and is of such character that it diffuses the light and prevents any possibility of visible "hot-spots" or glare from the bulb.

The opening portion of the service Sunday evening will be a dramatic worship service depicting the bringing of light, both through the use of physical materials and through human personality, and will be conducted by candlelight. The president of the Men's Club, Byron S. Chatham, will make the presentation of the lights to the church on behalf of the Men's Club, and Harold S. Brigham will read a message of acceptance from H. R. Brigham, the chairman of the Board of Trustees.

The lights will be officially turned on by Harold Rich, chairman of the committee selected by the Men's Club to study the matter of appropriate lighting fixtures and make recommendations to the club and the church.

Working with Mr. Rich on this committee were William S. Jackson and the pastor, the Rev. H. Victor Kane. The congregation will then join in the formal act of dedication. Special music under the direction of Mrs. Lester Decker will include anthem, Gounod's "Send Out Thy Light," by the church choir, and a baritone solo by Harold S. Brigham, "The Lord Is My Light" by Allitson.

The installation of the new lights marks the completion of a most active and successful year on the part of the First Baptist Men's Club. In this program of improving the church property they have had the cooperation and assistance of individuals and organizations of the church, not forgetting those of the community who have supported the activities of the club whereby this latest accomplishment was realized.

Present officers of the Men's Club are: Byron S. Chatham, president; George Matthews, vice-president; Paul Jones, secretary; and Erwin Crow, treasurer. Meetings of the club are held the last Wednesday evening of each month, the next one being planned for February 25.

The metal portion of the light is of hand-hammered iron with a Swedish iron finish which varies from black to silver. Two kinds of glass paneling are used in each fixture, the exterior being of light amber cathedral glass which matches the re-decorations recently completed, while the interior is of flash-opal glass which is manufactured in England and is of such character that it diffuses the light and prevents any possibility of visible "hot-spots" or glare from the bulb.

The opening portion of the service Sunday evening will be a dramatic worship service depicting the bringing of light, both through the use of physical materials and through human personality, and will be conducted by candlelight. The president of the Men's Club, Byron S. Chatham, will make the presentation of the lights to the church on behalf of the Men's Club, and Harold S. Brigham will read a message of acceptance from H. R. Brigham, the chairman of the Board of Trustees.

The lights will be officially turned on by Harold Rich, chairman of the committee selected by the Men's Club to study the matter of appropriate lighting fixtures and make recommendations to the club and the church.

Working with Mr. Rich on this committee were William S. Jackson and the pastor, the Rev. H. Victor Kane. The congregation will then join in the formal act of dedication. Special music under the direction of Mrs. Lester Decker will include anthem, Gounod's "Send Out Thy Light," by the church choir, and a baritone solo by Harold S. Brigham, "The Lord Is My Light" by Allitson.

The installation of the new lights marks the completion of a most active and successful year on the part of the First Baptist Men's Club. In this program of improving the church property they have had the cooperation and assistance of individuals and organizations of the church, not forgetting those of the community who have supported the activities of the club whereby this latest accomplishment was realized.

Present officers of the Men's Club are: Byron S. Chatham, president; George Matthews, vice-president; Paul Jones, secretary; and Erwin Crow, treasurer. Meetings of the club are held the last Wednesday evening of each month, the next one being planned for February 25.

Fire of Unknown Origin Destroys New Paltz House

Fire, of unknown origin, destroyed the 20-room boarding house owned by Frank Fiume-freddo on the New Paltz-Highland road, about a mile and a half east of New Paltz at 3 o'clock this morning with a loss estimated at approximately $15,000.

The fire was discovered by a passing truck driver who notified R. M. Hasbrouck, a neighbor, who called the New Paltz fire department. It was said that at the time of the fire the house was apparently vacant. Through the efforts of the firemen a large kitchen in the rear of the boarding house was saved as well as a three-car garage and a large barn.

Brazil's imports of steam locomotives from Germany in 1940 were valued at $588,785, compared with $847,435 in 1939.

The New Aristocracy
At last the lowly hen has found a standing in the sun. And everybody wonders how the miracle was done. Her rating has been going up. For, though she may be dumb, the dame is worth her heft in gold.

Her eggs in platinum. So now her cackle has a charm; Would you believe it sir— That everytime she sings a song She rings the register!

Mrs. Gubbins—I'm glad to 'ear your 'usband's up and about again, Mrs. Miggs.

Mrs. Miggs—Yes, the doctor says 'e 'as marvelous powers of wutipation.

Skywriters may be good advertisers, but they give lots of folks a pain in the neck.

Button Robinson—(to Jimmy Brice who was leaving on a fishing trip)—Jimmy, bring me back a big fish.

Jimmy—I have been going on this fishing trip once a year for the past ten years and have never got any fish.

Button—Well, why don't you fish this time?

Radio Announcer—The three minutes silence on your radio, ladies and gentlemen, was not due to a technical breakdown, but was sent to you by courtesy of noiseless typewriters.

Helen—What in the world are you doing over there, Ernestine? Ernestine—Getting ahead. Helen—You've needed one long enough.

The Real Thing
"As snug as a bug in a rug"

A common expression, you mug; But a bug in a rug

Is never as snug

As a lass and a lad in a hug

Albert—My brother supports himself by rolling the bones. Joseph—Crap-shooter, eh?

Albert—Are you trying to insult me? My brother is an osteopath, sir!

A Scot and his wife walked from their farm to the county fair, his wife laden down with a heavy lunch basket. Once arrived at the fair, he considerably turned to her and said:

"You'd better let me carry the basket now, Mary, we might get separated in the crowd."

Conductor—Did you get home all right last night, sir?

Whifflebootham—Of course—why not?

Conductor—Well, when you got up to give your seat to that lady, you were the only two people on the bus.

Evaluation
Not once in life, perhaps, 'tis ours

To reach a long-sought goal. But we may pause beside the road

To help another soul. Not once to us may come the call

To play the hero's part; But we, perchance, may give some word

Of courage to some heart.

Jack—You say she partially returned your affections?

Toni—Yes, she sent back my letters but kept all the jewelry.

Junior Aviation Program Proposed For All Schools

Albany—A long-range junior aviation program has been recommended to all schools in New York state in connection with the industrial arts courses to prepare pupils for easier introduction into flying and thus to "Teach 'Em Flying."

For every school having an industrial arts teacher is asked to offer the work to pupils starting next September. During the present term, industrial arts classes are building 60,000 model planes for the army and navy.

The long-range program includes all grades from the first to the twelfth. Regents credits may be offered to pupils completing the courses.

The courses are expected to be of immediate value to the pupils in that they will: offer senior high school pupils preliminary education in aeronautics; provide some exploratory experience for senior high school pupils in the elements of ground mechanics and flying; teach construction of scale models of airplanes for use in identification; stimulate interest in civil defense units; build community-mindedness, and provide good industrial arts activity.

Present and deferred values are listed as: Focusing increased interest in geography, science and mathematics; developing increased appreciation of the aviation industry, aeronautics and commercial aviation; which will aid in postwar adjustment; offering pupils a valuable avocational activity, and increasing adjustment of secondary schools to present-day conditions.

The following program for the schools is recommended: Grades 1 to 3: read about aviation, draw pictures of planes, study the geography of airlines, visit airport, make sand table airport, collect aviation pictures; Grades 4 to 6: continue reading, drawing and study of aviation; construct very simple model planes, air maps, scrap books; collect small planes and pictures; Grades 7 to 9: offer a required course of 50 to 100 hours in the construction of rubber-band-powered flying scale model planes; study the elementary principles of aviation; grades 10 to 12: offer a full year course in making model planes in a designing, constructing and flying model planes; in constructing and flying gliders, and in the elements of aeronautics. DANGEROUS BAGGAGE

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

New Alert
Chapter 20

AS Goodwin's arms folded around her, Sharon gathered up her travelling courage and, pushing away from him, whispered, "Listen!"

Goodwin stopped, alert. For several moments they stood staring at each other, unseeing, waiting the repetition of Sharon's imaginary sound.

Then, amazingly, there was a sound. The growing putt-putt of the motor boat.

"Our strange visitor is coming back," Sharon said, so grateful for the interruption she was hard put not to show it.

Goodwin nodded, released her abruptly. "We must get back to the car."

Sharon never obeyed a command with such alacrity. Leading the way, she fled up the trail, sure-footed in her desire to be out of that cave, back into civilization.

Not that she was exactly out of the woods yet, she thought as she climbed into the car. Still, Harvey Goodwin's mood had changed. He was no longer her rather unmanageable admirer, he was the busy executive, her employer. Looking at him now from the corner of her eye, her fears of a few moments before seemed groundless. Nothing about his grave-eyed attention to the road ahead, the unfailing courtesy of his occasional remark, his slightest gesture seemed to bear out the evidence of her alarm. Strange that he could change so quickly. His mercurial disposition made him a sort of Dr. Jekyll-and-Mr. Hyde. She was, at least temporarily, no longer in danger of too much of Mr. Goodwin's attention. Sure of that now, she rested her head against the back of the seat, let the motion of the car cradle her, soothing her aching tired body.

Mr. Goodwin drove her directly to her apartment.

"Don't come down to the office today," he said as he helped her out of the car. "But get the rest you must need badly."

"You must be," and his smile warmed her. "Thank you for all that you have done and next time—" he raised one eyebrow at her, "don't let your imagination play tricks."

Too tired to defend herself any further, Sharon only smiled, said, "I'll try not to."

"And don't take our young friend to Half Moon Bay again."

There was no teasing in that. Threat, rather. And a definite warning. She had been right. There was a secret there and she had very nearly uncovered it!

"I won't," she promised quietly.

Later as she drew the blinds in her bedroom to shut out the morning sunlight, undressed, and crawled wearily into bed, she wondered a little about Mr. Goodwin's trusting her with certain vital information and then abruptly drawing a curtain over the rest. There had been a full shipment of the precious airplane valves in that cabin only hours before she had led him there. She was certain of it. What's more, she believed he knew it too.

As on a treadmill, her mind circled back over the details of the last twenty-four hours again and again until finally her tired young body relaxed and she fell into deep, dreamless sleep.

She awakened about four, refreshed and ravenously hungry. In her bathrobe and slippers, she raided the icebox, made herself tea and toast. She had just poured her second cup when the door-phone buzzed.

Edda

DENNIS, probably, Sharon thought as she released the door latch. Home early and he'd forgotten his key as usual.

But it was not Dennis who appeared in the doorway a few moments later. It was—Countess Edda Cavetuna!

Speechless with amazement, Sharon could only stare at her. The Countess—here!

"How do you do?" The Countess bowed slightly. "May I come in?"

"But of course. I'm so—so surprised—so happy to see you," Sharon stammered.

"I hope I'm not disturbing you too much."

Sharon flushed, aware of her own tousled head, her robe, her bare slippered feet. "Not at all," and tried to tuck the little mules out of sight under the full skirt of her robe. "Won't you sit down?"

"Thank you. The Countess sat on the edge of the little, straight-backed desk chair, her trimly gloved hands folded over her bag, her smile disarming—almost.

"It's a lovely afternoon, isn't it?"

The Countess's smile turned a sharp edge. "Yes, your drive up from the country this morning must have been—delightful."

Sharon was on guard instantly. "A business trip can hardly be called delightful."

"No? That's hardly understandable with so charming a companion as you had," she murmured evenly. "Still, I wouldn't be in a position to judge—not being a business woman as you are."

Sharon, aware from the first that this was not to be a social call, waited now for the Countess to make the first move.

"Since you are so clever a business woman, however," the Countess went on, "I am sure you will is to be an important part of the senior high school work.

Instructors in industrial arts can learn in a one-week intensive course the skills and knowledge needed for this work, according to Roy G. Fales, supervisor in industrial arts education who has charge of the "Teach 'EM Flying" program in the public schools of the state. The program has the strongest endorsement of Commissioner of Education Ernest E. Cole and Deputy Commissioner Lewis A. Wilson.

appreciate the proposition that I have to make to you."

Sharon folded her hands tight in her lap. "Yes?"

"It is really very simple." The beautiful Edda smiled, a gesture intended evidently to dazzle Sharon into submission. "I feel that the responsibility of your position is much too great for a girl of your years. I know I am presumptuous in assuming any right even to be concerned about your welfare. But, knowing you for the sweet charming girl that you are, I could not help but offer my advice and, if you will accept it, my help."

"I am afraid I don't understand," Sharon parried for time, trying desperately to see the real reason behind the Countess's visit.

"I mean just this, my dear. You are in a dangerous position. Very dangerous. Much more so than, I feel, Harvey has made you understand. More, perhaps, than Harvey himself realizes."

Sharon shook her head. "Still, I cannot see why you—"

"Exactly," Shrugging, the Countess laughed softly. "But that is the way I am, always. Worrying about other people's dangers."

Then, with sweet earnestness, "Believe me, my dear, I don't often bother to try to rescue people from themselves. But in your case—" again that lovely, appealing little shrug. "I cannot help myself. You are so young, so innocent, so very lovely."

Perfectly sure that in none of this lay the Countess's real motive, Sharon led her on. "And—what did you want me to do?"

"Resign your position. Leave this part of the country at least until this grave danger is passed."

"But—what is the grave danger?" Sharon demanded.

"That I am not at liberty to reveal. But believe me you are indeed, in very grave danger—mortal danger."

"And where would you have me go?"—still fencing, still completely in the dark as to real reasons.

"I have influential friends—in New York, in Baltimore. I could find you many advantageous offers. Until you advance a position, I would gladly provide means for—" The haste with which Countess Edda drew a checkbook and pen from her bag, betrayed her.

Dismissed

"BRIBERY!" Sharon spoke the word even as it leapt in huge black letters against the silver-screen of her mind. And with the word, her quick Irish temper unfurled a young banner. "And just how much is it worth to you to have me out of the picture so that Harvey Goodwin will be in no danger of forgetting your ladyship?" And her tongue curled contemptuously around the question.

The Countess stiffened laughingly. "How dare the blinds!"

Sharon laughed, a short, triumphant cascade of sound. At last she had the answer to at least one of the problems that had baffled her. Jealousy—that age-old reason behind the machinations of a woman in love.

"Keep your money, madam," she said, her head high. "Because I intend to keep my position."

Slowly, the Countess dropped her checkbook, her pen into the smart capaciousness of her black bag. Then, as she rose, her dark eyes betrayed such passionate hatred that Sharon realized this woman would stop at nothing. No weapon would be too mean, no plan too involved to put Sharon out of her way.

Sharon was not surprised then when the Countess, her voice no longer the dulcet tones of a gentlewoman, said coldly:

"If I were to tell you that I have it within my power to force your resignation—certain information that I can give or withhold in your name to the enemy—"

"Then I should call that blackmail," Sharon said with iciness to match the Countess's. "In this country, that is a federal offense."

"Touché," the Countess shrugged eloquently. "You will not listen to me this time, but perhaps another day—"

"Another day I will be just as determined to do my duty as I am this minute."

"Perhaps. We shall see."

Turning, the Countess moved to the door. When once more the velvet glove slipped over her curving claw. "If you should change your mind, Miss Doyle, my offer still stands—until it is too late."

She closed the door before Sharon had time to reply. Her anger, now that the enemy had retired from the scene of battle, dissolved into apprehension. What could the Countess have meant?

"Information I can give or withhold—in your name—to the enemy!"

And how clumsily she had handled this first open skirmish! Sharon's knees threatened mutiny and she sank down onto the same little desk chair the Countess had occupied only a moment before. If she had held her temper, played for time, she might have discovered what information the Countess meant. More than that, she might have kept her battle "undeclared." As it was, she'd seen through her adversary's first thrust, balked the blow, humiliating her and—won her everlasting hatred! From now on, it was open war!

Her fists clenched, Sharon pounded softly on the desk as she drove home this new-found truth. Once more her quick temper had betrayed her.

Polio Victim, 18, Is Rated Perfect In Physical Exam

Mason Hohl, Who Suffered From Disease 18 Months Ago, Is Cured by New Method

Los Angeles, Feb. 20 (AP)—Mason Hohl, 18, was given a perfect physical rating in his medical examination at the University of California at Los Angeles. Doctors probably wondered how he got that 2-inch scar on his right leg, just below the knee. But they didn't ask.

Young Hohl didn't mention that it was his physical reminder that he barely was able to stumble along 18 months ago. He was badly crippled by infantile paralysis.

Now he's a member of UCLA R. O.T.C. unit and walks and runs as easily as any of his fellow cadets.

Hohl was presented to the Los Angeles County Medical Association last night as Dr. Anthony van Harreveld and Dr. Harvey E. Billig, Jr., a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy Medical Corps, told how they discovered a polio treatment which effected marvelous results on five patients.

Dr. van Harreveld is a faculty member at California Institute of Technology and Dr. Billig has been assigned to active duty there for research.

The treatment consists of crushing an entire nerve, degeneration of which caused paralysis in the muscle. As the nerve fibers struggle to reestablish connection with the muscle, they grow and multiply by division. Thus they eventually motivate not only the muscle fibers which the nerves supplied before the crushing, but many times that number.

Dr. Billig said the research began with rabbits and it "took a bit of daring to try it on the first human"—Hohl, son of Dr. Elizabeth Mason Hohl, President of the American Women's Medical Association.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Feb. 20—On the evening of Ash Wednesday, the Lenten services were begun in the Methodist Church here, the service beginning at 8 o'clock. The meeting was conducted by the Rev. Lester Haws, pastor of the church, and the sermon of the evening was preached by the Rev. Elmer Bostock of New Paltz. Attending the service also was the Rev. Walter Scranton, who will speak here in about two weeks.

A vocal solo was given by Ralph Harrison, the number being Louise Reichardt's "In the Time of Roses." The next Lenten service of the series will be held in Shady.

A representative number of men met in the firemen's quarters of Town Hall on Wednesday evening to begin their first aid course which is known as the short course. It is hoped also that there will be additional members as the course progresses.

The bugle corps held a rehearsal in the town hall Wednesday evening.

Harry Dock, who suffered some nasal trouble a few days ago, is reported improved.

On Wednesday the annual Delphic rush party was held. All regular Delphic members and their invited guests gathered at the fraternity house for a dinner and an evening of entertainment. Emory Jacobs, Leslie Oakley, and Loren D. Campbell, advisers of the fraternity, were present. Games and other activities were enjoyed.

$51 for Red Cross

Miss Barbara Pfaff announced recently that the student drive on behalf of the Red Cross amounted to $51.

Miss Pfaff commented on the splendid spirit shown by both faculty and students in knitting garments for the Red Cross. She reported that the group has exceeded the supply of wool allotted and due to the fact that Kingston now must buy its own wool, enough wool for only eight sweaters has been obtained.

Pan-American Panel

Francis Mulroy, president of the International Relations Club, opened the assembly program on Tuesday morning by introducing the speaker of the panel discussion on "How Do We Stand With Latin America?"

Some of the members of the Senior Pan-American Relations class contributed to the panel. Robert Irwin opened the program by reading a paper concerning our relations with South and Central America. He explained South American attitude toward the Axis and pointed out various proofs of their learnings toward American ideals. On several occasions German schools and colleges have been closed to prevent their indoctrination of the youth of the different countries.

Following the presentation of the paper, Dr. Verduin, instructor of the Pan American Relations class as well as adviser of the International Relations Club, acted as chairman and asked the members of the panel questions based on the information contained in Mr. Irwin's paper.

The members of the panel elaborated on topics such as the trade situation, military strategy, ethnic background, and cultural advantages of South America.

The members of the panel were: Dominick Gentile, Gladys Jenkins, Ruth Niesen, and Caroline Schreyer.

Following the formal portion of the discussion, questions and comments were solicited from the audience answered by the panel members.

Social Room Opens

Lists of the hosts and hostesses for the newly opened social room have been prepared by Eleanor Moore, who is acting as a substitute in Student Council.

The social room will be open from 8 o'clock until 4:15 every day, with the exception of the 10 o'clock assembly hour on Tuesdays. The senior class will be responsible for hosts and hostesses every day at the 8 o'clock hour. The juniors will be there at 9 a. m. and again at 10 o'clock. Sophomores will have charge at 11 a. m. and at 2:15. The 3:15 hour will be under freshman supervision. A list of the students will be posted each week on the Dean's bulletin board in the main hall.

Collaboration on Paper

Lawrence H. van den Berg, Jr., and Dr. Arnold R. Verduin have collaborated on an article entitled "Mississippi Squadron Papers."

This article will appear in an early issue of Mississippi Valley Historical Review, a journal devoted to the history of the Mississippi Valley.

Dr. van den Berg's son was trained in historical research at University of Michigan. He received his M. A. there last June. At present he is at Camp Eustis, Virginia.

The papers from which this article has been drawn are in the possession of Robert Lasher of New Paltz.

Philadelphia Debs Desert Stag Line For Defense Work

What Is More, Fellow Factory Workers Pay Respects for Hard Work They Can Master

Philadelphia, Feb. 20 (AP)—"Eight a. m. sharp—factory" now is the most important memo in the datebook of several Philadelphia debutantes.

For the glamor girls are turning into calloused-handed laboring ladies in their determination to do what they can in the nation's war drive. They get one day off a week, and work six Sundays out of seven.

Three debutantes of this season and last already have deserted the stag lines of the ballrooms for the assembly plants. Another is learning welding in a trade school to qualify for an exacting job in the munitions industry, while still another is waiting for a call from Frankford arsenal.

And for those who think it just another society fad, the pretty aspiring young welder answers: "Nobody ever spent 400 hours with an oxyacetylene torch for a whim. I'm in earnest about helping—and so are the other girls."

Maymie Morris, a pert belle of the season, was apparently the first to shed stylish clothes for coveralls. She deserted volunteer auxiliary services and stood in line at employment windows until she landed a job at the Bendix Aviation Corp. plant. Soon she was one of the most proficient coil-winders on the line. Working associates didn't discover her identity until photographs of Maymie during a fox hunt appeared. But by that time she could out-wind the best of 'em and the only teasing was good-natured.

Berthe Churchman and Betty Fehr also were employed by Bendix—on their own—to fit intricate instruments into airplane panels. "It was a little weird, the first day or two, to roll out of bed at six in the morning," said Berthe. "But I'd get up earlier than that if I had to, to have a job like this."

Then she echoed the sentiments of the others: "It makes you feel that you're in the midst of the war effort. I guess everyone in the plant feels the same way I do."

Occupational Toll By Accidents Go Up in January

Chicago, Feb. 20 (AP)—Occupational accident deaths, which rose 8 per cent and cost millions in 1941, continued upward during January in reports to 23 state compensation commissions, the National Safety Council announced today.

"Although comparative totals for only one month are not sufficient evidence on which to base a forecast for the trend throughout 1942," the council said, "reports from the principal industrial states, where exposure on a man-hour basis is sizeable, do indicate that the occupational accident problem should be of growing concern to industrial management."

January deaths totaled 711, an increase of 19 per cent over January, 1941, with 506 American six states, with the largest man-hour exposure to occupational accidents which reported to the council, Illinois had the largest January increase—127 per cent, based on 59 deaths against 26 the same month of 1941.

Connecticut, Georgia and Tennessee, with smaller total man-hour exposure than the six largest states, recorded larger percentage increases than Illinois—400 per cent in the first two and 200 per cent in Tennessee.

New York, which had a 6 per cent drop in occupational accident deaths reported to its compensation commission for 1941, started 1942 with a 20 per cent increase for January.

Plan Is Announced For Wartime State Fire Administrator

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 20 (AP)—A comprehensive plan of wartime fire protection, calling for appointment of a salaried state fire administrator, was submitted to the legislature today with an invitation to "constructive criticism."

Explaining they were committed to the bill only in principle, Senator Roy M. Page, Broome county, and Assemblyman Harold Osterlag, Wyoming county, said "changes suggested will be given careful consideration by us and the defense committees of our respective houses."

Page is chairman of the Senate Defense Committee and Osterlag heads the Legislative Committee on interstate cooperation, sponsoring much of the defense legislation for the Republican majority.

The plan, which would operate outside New York city and affect an estimated 225,000 paid and volunteer firemen, also contemplated creation of committees of fire chiefs in specified zones with one functioning as zone chief. Firemen could be mobilized for emergency duty anywhere outside their usual jurisdiction.

Two proposals designed to protect consumers against inferior meat were introduced by Republican Senator Thomas C. Desmond, Newburgh, and Assemblyman Ernest J. Lonis, Hannibal. They are Republican chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of a legislative commission investigating trichinosis and other diseases caused by consumption of inferior meat.

A bill intended to prevent liquor-price wars was introduced by Republican Senator Allan A. Ryan, Jr., Dutchess county, and Assemblyman Fred G. Morrill, Brooklyn Democrat. The measure would require each retailer to set prices and adhere to them for at least a month after posting the list.

Brooklyn Killers Die at Sing Sing

Two Are First Convicted Members of Ring

Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 20 (AP)—Frank (The Dasher) Abbando, 33, and Harry (Happy) Maione, 32, first convicted members of the ruthless band of Brooklyn killers, died today in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison.

The Dasher, devoid of all the dash that gained him his gangland "moniker," was the first to go, meekly entering the death chamber on the stroke of midnight with his head bowed and his right hand on the shoulder of the prison's Catholic chaplain, the Rev. Bernard Martin.

He kissed a cross held before him by the priest and died at 12:04 a. m. (E. W. T.) without saying a word.

Maione, also walking behind Father Martin, seemingly lived up to his gangland nickname by flashing a forced smile. He, too, kissed a cross, said nothing and was pronounced dead at 12:10 a. m. (E. W. T.).

Broskie Sets Major Record With 734 Triple at Centrals

Veteran Also Hits New Mark With 277 In Amazing Style

Ken Williams of Nekos Has 687 Triple; Shines With 269 Single Game Last Night

In a postponed bowling match of the Major League at the Central Recreation alleys last night Harold Broskie, captain of the Pepsis, established an all-time league record with a sensational 734 triple against the Nekos.

Broskie, rolling anchor for the Pepsis, made a dazzling performance with successive games of 235, 277 and 222. It was in the second game when he hit 277 that the fans who were on hand for the match, saw Broskie pointing for a possible 300 game.

Harold had eight straight strikes before letting up when he pounded out the sensational score of 277, another new league record which may stand for a long time to come. It was Broskie's spectacular klegling that gave his club two games over Nekos in a grueling high scoring affair.

Opposing Broskie for other honors in the games was Ken Williams, anchor for the Nekos who came through with an enviable 687 triple. He had a big game in the first with 269, and closed with scores of 208 and 210 for his great three game total.

Another outstanding piece of bowling was handed in by Steve Breitfeller of the winning club who had a 633 triple. His scores were 245, 165 and 243. With all of the kleglers in top shape, the Pepsis had a 2952 series and posted a high individual game of 1036.

Following Williams' mark for the Nekos came Gil Sampson, another veteran ten pin star who finished with a 1602 triple. His games were 160, 222 and 220 for an acceptable night for any bowler.

The scores:

NEKOS (1)
Sampson	160 222 220 602
Murphy	159 189 217 575
Robinson	181 201 144 526
Van Alstyne	186 161 167 514
Williams	269 208 210 687
Total	955 991 958 2904

PEPSIS (2)
Hanley	171 170 190 531
Omers	159 189 217 575
Tiano	205 164 144 513
Breitfeller	245 165 243 653
Broskie	235 277 222 734
Total	1036 946 970 2952

Hits 734 Triple

At the Central Recreation alleys last night in the Major League, Harold Broskie of the Pepsis, reached the pinnacle of his career when he unleashed three sensational scores of 235, 277 and 222 for a 734 series which is an all-time league record. Broskie's 734 triple was his second 700 of the season. His spectacular klegling helped the Pepsis to win two games from Nekos.

Golfers Agree That Putting Makes Big Difference in Play

Harbert and Jim Demaret Talk on Subject as They Prepare for New Orleans Open

New Orleans, Feb. 20 (AP)—Chick Harbert, one of golf's leading youngsters this season, and Jimmy Demaret, who ranked at the top two years ago, agreed today that a putting streak really makes the difference as they tee off in the New Orleans $5,000 open tournament.

Two seasons ago when Demaret came here to win the local event he said:

"My putter is so hot I'm afraid to go to sleep at night for fear I'll lose it."

That was in the midst of his spectacular campaign of six victories in nine major events on the winter swing—a record no other golfer has ever equaled.

This season the best he's done is a single third place.

"I'm hitting the ball better than I ever did before," he said, "but two years ago I averaged 28 or 30 putts a round and now I'm taking 32 or 34."

Harbert was just another good amateur when Jimmy was at the top. Last year he was called a "coming golfer." Now he has arrived; has won two events on the winter circuit, and is fresh from beating veteran Ben Hogan in a playoff for the Texas open championship.

"The biggest reason," he explained, "is that my putting has improved 20 per cent. I used to miss two putts of three feet or less every round. Clip two strokes off your average and it makes a big difference."

Harbert suddenly stepped up into the class of consistent money winners at Wharlington, Tex., when he changed his style after studying the putting of Horton Smith and Leonard Dodson, and borrowed Tony Enna's putter which he has used ever since.

He scored his first major victory in the next meet, the Beaumont, Tex., open.

But how can Ben Hogan stay up near the top so long?

"He seems to be on a permanent streak," grinned Demaret.

New Jersey Bowlers Will Appear Here in Red Cross Show Next Saturday Night

BOWLING

The next special Red Cross bowling show will be held at the Central Recreation alleys Saturday night, February 28, when the powerful Fabers of Teaneck, N. J., make an appearance here against the Central Rec Stars.

These bowling exhibitions are being sponsored by a local sports committee in an aid to the local chapter of the Red Cross. So far the attendance at the matches has been gratifying to the committee and the ones in charge are confident that a tidy sum will be handed over to the chapter later on.

When the Teaneck bowlers make their appearance here a woman's team also will be on hand to meet the Colonial City Stars, made up of the outstanding female bowlers in the city.

The Skeeter State bowlers are perhaps the biggest attraction of the season at the Central Recreation alleys. Teaneck now holds the national season record for high scoring in A.B.C. sanctioned leagues. This aggregation hit a 3515 series which set the national record February 6.

Teaneck's ace bowlers in the Faber lineup hold the record of hitting the second highest game in the nation—a 1264. The club's highest triples have been 3515, 3393 and 3304.

Gerry Faber, sponsor of the team, became the first bowler in Bergen county, N. J., to roll 300 in league competition this year. He followed by games of 220 and 222 for a 742 series. Eddie Gass, another member of the team, set the pace when Fabers rolled 3391 against Curtis Propellers earlier in the season. Gass had games of 267, 246 and 225 for a 738 triple.

Later on Gass blasted a sensational 780 series, with games of 247, 256 and 277 as Fabers hit a 3304 series in the Inter-Club League at Phelps Manor alleys in Englewood, N. J. Lou Lurch with 678 and Garry Faber with 667 also aided.

Kingston ten pin followers will see plenty of top-notch bowling next Saturday night when this outstanding club of the nation appears in this city.

Kingston Travels To Ellenville for DUSO Tilt Tonight

Maroon Quintet Choice to Win; Middies Out for 12th Straight in Newburgh

Kingston High School's inspired basketball club travels to Ellenville tonight to resume its DUSO League schedule. By winning Wednesday night, Kingston gets the nod for tonight's contest.

Other loop action tonight pits Middletown at Liberty and Newburgh at Monticello. Both Middletown and Newburgh are favorites.

Tuesday night Kingston won its first second half game by stopping Liberty at the municipal auditorium by the score of 38 to 20. The Maroon and White cagers have little, if any hope at all, to win the second half crown. Still, the club is trying to land in a runner-up position.

While Kingston was trouncing the Redskins, Ellenville lost to Newburgh at the Hilly City gym by the score of 40 to 25. Ellenville looked like a "darkhorse" in the first half but since the second round got under way the cagers of Coach Al Roberts haven't been able to get started. Ellenville has dropped two straight.

Coach G. Warren Kias is ready to send Captain Ray Herrick, Rod Sagendorf, George Zelle, Ed Luedtke and Al Zadany into tonight's fray. Meanwhile, Coach Roberts may change his mind on the Ellenville cagers. However, his choices will probably be Tennenbaum, Betz, Nail, Warshaw and McClay.

The Middies continued on their winning ways Tuesday night by walloping Port Jervis to the tune of 37 to 21. Ray Clemmer starred for the winners with 11 markers. "Red" Kelly, star forward of Port Jervis, was finally stopped at Middletown captured its 11th straight contest.

Conn-Louis Looms Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 20 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs says he plans to pit Billy Conn against Joe Louis if conditions allow it.

"Billy Conn's showing against Tony Zale the other night warrants a return match," Jacobs said. "Just because Conn didn't knock Zale out is nothing against him. Billy is a good boy. He'll give Joe a run."

One More Effort Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 20 (AP)—Roy Cochran, the Indiana University flash, was ready today for one more competitive effort before hanging up his spikes to enter service at the Great Lakes naval training station. Cochran, who has been working out at Harvard, competes in the special New York A. C. 500 tomorrow night.

Robinson vs. Berger New York, Feb. 20 (AP)—Roy Robinson, Harlem's hammering welterweight who has won all the 27 ring battles he has entered since turning professional, meets Maxie Berger of Montreal in a scheduled 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. Robinson, regarded as the No. 1 challenger for Red Cochrane's welterweight crown since making Fritz Zivic his 20th knockout victim, will climb through the ropes a top-heavy favorite at odds of around 1 to 5.

Boston, Feb. 20 (AP)—Mrs. Weston W. Adams, wife of the youthful president of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, made her second venture into sports today by taking over a vice-presidency of the hockey club. For the past year she has raced a string of thoroughbreds with some success.

Red Cross War Fund A substantial contribution toward the $45,000 American Red Cross War Fund to be raised by the Ulster County Committee will help keep the fighting men, healthy, happy and efficient.

Bowling Roundup

Y.M.C.A. International In the International League Wednesday night Bill Finger of Sears rolled a high single of 218 and a high triple of 514 as Sears took two games from the Clinton Avenue Men's Club.

Although his team dropped two games to the Treadwells, R. Every of Canfields rapped out a 533 triple, the highest hit in the league that night. Every had scores of 193, 151, and 189.

Short of Matthews blasted the maples for a 507 three game series as his club won two from Elstons.

Wiltwyck League Notes In the Wiltwyck League activities at the Central Recreation alleys last night Paul Masters of the Morgan Social Club bowled the highest triple of the night with 628. His games were 199, 221 and 208. Despite his enviable bowling, the Socials lost three straight to the L.L.G.W.U. paced by "Coke" Costello who had a 226 single.

The highest individual game honor went to Roosa of Fishers who blasted the pins for a 236 game. Frank Bartoff of Works came in second with a 234 and finished with a 519 triple in the Works-Morgan match. His other marks were 161 and 124.

Harmon Borfitz of the A. & P. kleglers, picked up two honors for his club as they won one from the Generals. Borfitz had a high single of 211 and closed with a 579 triple. Jacobsen, anchor of the Detroiters, hit 210 and 507 as his club dropped two games to Elmdorfs.

Other high scores rolled in last night's games are as follows: "Coke" Costello had a 580 triple. B. Rosenstein 559, J. Sweeney 513 and 548 and M. Auchmoody 537, all with the L.L.G.W.U.

For the Generals, Charlie Grunwald blasted a 502 triple and Fritz Bruhn had 500. J. Davis had the only 500 game for Elmdorfs with a 506. Hornbeck's 536 named Minasiens while Ackley had 507.

E. Thiel of the Trailways had 525. Czerwinski had a 513 triple for Morgans. Surbeck and La Polt counted with three game totals of 525 and 521 for Fishers. Brevoort

Johnny Swint's 567 was the high triple in the games. Lou Hynes had 230 for the losers. Gaffney hit the only other 200 game of 201.

Mickes, with Dwight McEntee hitting a high single of 229 and a high triple of 620, defeated the Pepsis in two games. Johnny "Red" Sangi did consistent bowling with his 517 while Herb Van Deusen checked in with 516. Fred Rice, anchor for the Pepsis, had a 571 triple. Mac Tiano, Harold Broskie and Breitfeller followed with 552, 542 and 543. Breitfeller's 213 single was high for the club.

A detailed story of Broskie's feat will be found elsewhere in the paper.

While Broskie featured the attack for the Pepsis, Breitfeller had to be content with second with a 653 triple on enviable scores of 245, 165 and 243. Bob Hanley had a 531 triple while Osmer had 521 and Mac Tiano 521.

Ken Williams, anchor for Nekos, bowled a 687 triple, highlighted by a 269 single game. His other marks were 208 and 210. Gil Sampson, leadoff for Nekos had 602 with 160, 222 and 220. Ed Murphy had 575, paced by a 217 single. George Robinson's 526, powered by a 201 and O. Van Alstyne 514.

Japs Attack Island of Bali

The Bilin river, 80 miles northeast of Rangoon, after 24 hours of fierce attacks and counter-attacks, coupled with the grave turn of events in the Indies, Tokyo headquarters asserted that waves of Japanese naval planes attacking the Australian mainland yesterday for the first time had sunk a 6,000-ton Australian auxiliary cruiser, two destroyers, a submarine and nine transports at Darwin.

Without Confirmation
This toll was without confirmation from United Nations sources, but 15 persons were killed and 24 wounded and considerable bomb damage had been acknowledged at the north Australian port.

The effect of the Timor operations upon neutral Portugal was problematical. She already had protested and ordered troops to Portuguese Timor, the eastern section of the mountainous, 12,000-square-mile island, as a result of the occupation of that section last December 18 by Dutch and Australians seeking to prevent just such a Japanese invasion.

Timor lies 800 miles east of Soerabaja, Java, major naval base of the Netherlands East Indies, and 450 miles northwest of Darwin, military and naval center on Australia's northern coast.

Both Soerabaja and Darwin have been attacked by Japanese bombers. Darwin's defenders knocked down six of 93 raiders yesterday but were unable to prevent considerable bomb damage both ashore and in the harbor. They had another alert today, but no Japanese aircraft appeared.

It was at Soerabaja that a squadron of 16 United States P-40 pursuit planes destroyed six of 27 raiders in an air battle announced yesterday by the U. S. War Department in Washington. One American plane was shot down there, but the pilot was saved.

The Japanese ignored this engagement, but asserted that their airmen, without loss to themselves, had shot down or destroyed 27 American and Dutch planes at Buitenzorg, a Java air base about 40 miles south of Batavia.

The Japanese also announced their first raid of the war on Mandalay, upper Burma city 350 miles above Rangoon on the railway from that port city to Lashio, where the Burma Road begins.

They said serious damage was caused to military installations in the city in the attack, which occurred yesterday.

The Japanese drive into Burma to a Bilin river area only 80 miles away led to withdrawal of thousands from the normal population of 500,000 in Rangoon, the capital and supply port for the Burma Road.

Chungking advisers said the Gulf of Martaban approaches to Rangoon were mined and that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had suggested a new India-to-China supply route to replace the interrupted railway-highway communication line to Kunming.

Gold Racket Uncovered
Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 20 (AP)—Federal authorities claimed today to have uncovered a $1,000,000 gold smuggling racket in an investigation resulting in five arrests. Bernard Kushner, president of Kushner and Pines, Inc., a gold refining concern, and David Roth, a paper salesman, were held by federal authorities in New York city under an indictment charging a conspiracy to smuggle nearly $1,000,000 in gold bullion from Canada into the United States. New York city police held Jack N. Rubin under $50,000 bail on an indictment charging him with receiving the case. Assistant U. S. Attorney Samuel H. Reis, New York, reported.

Axis Pocket Sub Sinks Freighter Olinda Off Coast

Two Crew Members Taken Aboard Submarine for Questioning: 46 Are Found Safe

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 20 (AP)—The 4,080-ton Brazilian freighter Olinda was sunk by an Axis submarine, described as "pocket size," off the Atlantic coast Wednesday afternoon, and crew members, two of whom were taken aboard the submarine "crash-dived" later at the approach of U. S. naval planes.

The Fifth Naval District authorized release of details of the sinking after the entire crew of 46 was picked up from two life boats by a rescue ship and landed here. The men were rescued after drifting and rowing for 20 hours. Navy officials withheld any further detail concerning the operations of the U. S. planes.

Francisco Nogueira, of Sao Paulo, Brazil, said that he and Captain Jacob Benomend were ordered aboard the submarine by its commander and were questioned concerning the nature of their cargo, where they were from and their destination.

The submarine, which fired "seventeen or eighteen shells—more or less" at the ship before the crew abandoned her, sent a torpedo into the Olinda amidships after the crew had taken to the boats, Nogueira said, adding the freighter went down about an hour and a half later.

Nogueira said the undersea raider was "small enough to put in my pocket." The submersible had one deck gun and two machine guns.

Nogueira was unable to say what the caliber of the deck gun was.

Planes Are Sighted
Crew members said that U. S. naval planes were sighted approaching while the submarine was still on the surface and that the submersible immediately crashed.

When the submarine first appeared Wednesday afternoon, Radio Operator Nogueira said the submersible fired a number of shells across the bow and over the ship. The sub was two miles away at the time. The first shell, he said, carried away the radio antenna, rendering impossible the sending of distress signals. More shells followed and the captain gave the order to abandon ship.

The crew left the ship on two lifeboats and pulled away. Officers on the sub's deck commanded the two boats to approach and as the lifeboat's drew near the command, speaking in English, Spanish and Portuguese, ordered the captain and the radio operator to come aboard.

Nogueira boarded the submarine first and was questioned "between six and ten minutes." He was treated courteously, the radio operator said, and "they took my picture once." The sub's crew also took pictures of the Olinda's two lifeboats.

When Nogueira returned to his lifeboat, Captain Benomend boarded the submarine and stayed about 10 minutes. The sub commander asked him for his ship's papers but Benomend told him the papers were aboard the ship.

Benomend returned to his lifeboat and the submarine then torpedoes the freighter.

The Olinda listed heavily, turned over on her side and went to bottom about an hour and a half after the crew entered the lifeboats.

The Olinda was out of Bahia for New York with a cargo of cocoa and castor beans.

Pedro Lama, fireman, of Belem, who was in the boiler room when the attack began, told newsmen that fire broke out during the shelling in the ship's No. 3 hold and in the engine room.

Outlays 145 Billions

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—The War Production Board said today that authorized outlays for war, plus war funds requested of Congress, totaled an estimated $145,400,000,000. The sum was only slightly under the national income for 1939 and 1940 combined, estimated at $146,709,000,000.

Henderson Favors Housewives Selling Excess Sugar Stock

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Leon Henderson wants housewives to share their sugar by selling excess supplies either to their grocer or to neighbors.

The price administrator suggested last night that those who have more sugar than they need adopt one of these methods to clear themselves of any suspicion that they have been hoarding in anticipation of the rationing program which will go into effect some time next month. When ration cards are issued householders must state how much sugar they have on hand.

Grocers who buy back sugar should pay current prices, Henderson said, and resell it at the same prices as a patriotic service.

The government is drawing up an industrial sugar rationing plan which may reduce by as much as 40 per cent next month the use of sweetening for some commodities. Until such time as the plan is completed, the war production board has fixed March quotas for industrial use at 80 per cent of the consumption in the corresponding month of 1941. This allocation is the same as that for February.

Mrs. F.D.R. Quits Her O.C.D. Post, Landis Accepts

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today resigned her post as assistant director of the office of civilian defense.

James M. Landis, director, accepted the resignation in a letter voicing gratitude for her "vision and energy," but saying he could not ask her to continue "to give so generously of your time and your gallantry."

Mrs. Roosevelt recently made known her intention to resign as soon as her division was functioning efficiently.

"That is now accomplished," her letter of resignation to Landis said, "and by remaining I would only make it possible for those who wish to attack me, because of my beliefs, to attack an agency which I consider to be of great usefulness to the people, and to the people, that it should be free of attack, in order to render its maximum service."

"No individual is more important than a good program. I feel that your's is and will be a program vital to the well-being of the people of the country."

The first lady was appointed to O.C.D. last September by former Director E. H. La Guardia, and O.C.D. officials said that she contributed "more than half" of her time to the agency. She was in full charge of community activities and volunteer workers.

Former Ellenville Woman Is Killed in Accident
Mrs. Mildred Terwilliger, 42, of 417 Wellington road, Delmar, N. Y., was instantly killed Friday when she was crushed between the side of her car and the locomotive of a D. & H. train at the Delmar station.

Mrs. Terwilliger had driven her mother, Mrs. Eva Brandt, to the station, where the latter was to board a train. She had parked her car at the top of an incline and she and her mother had left the car, when Mrs. Terwilliger noticed that a car was moving toward the tracks. She jumped on the car to apply the brakes, but it was carried on to the tracks just as the train approached and Mrs. Terwilliger was crushed to death.

The deceased woman was the wife of Harrison M. Terwilliger, formerly of Ellenville and at present an assistant professor at the State College for Teachers. She was prominent in her community, a former matron of her Eastern Star Chapter, member of the Delmar Progress Club and of the Methodist Church.

In addition to her husband she is survived by two daughters, Jean Terwilliger, 19, of Washington, D. C., and Joyce Terwilliger, 15, a high school student in Delmar.

Regents Makes Requests

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 20 (AP)—The state board of regents, expressing fear school services will be impaired, today urged the Republican legislative majority to restore approximately $2,500,000 of state aid for education to Governor Lehman's proposed $377,000,000 state budget. A resolution voted by 10 of 12 board members cited the "increased burden" placed upon public schools by the defense effort and said many schools already have effected "drastic" savings. Two regents did not attend the meeting.

Government Rests Case

New York, Feb. 20 (AP)—The government rested its case today against five men and a woman accused of gathering vital United States defense data and transmitting it to agents and officials of the German Reich. The trial against the six persons formally charged with conspiracy to violate the espionage act, started February 3. Principal witness for the government was an attractive German-born girl, Lucy Boehmder, 18-year-old high school student, who pleaded guilty to a superseded indictment before the trial started.

Births Set Record

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Census Bureau today acclaimed the 1941 crop of American babies as the largest in two decades. The births numbered about 2,500,000, were second only to the 2,600,000 record set in 1921. One reason for last year's big crop was the fact, the Bureau said, that a large number of the record 1921 babies themselves were married and producing children last year.

Frances Willard Memorial Meeting Held By W. C. T. U.

A Frances E. Willard memorial meeting was held by the local chapter of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Thursday afternoon, February 19, at St. James Methodist Church. Mrs. James A. Guttridge, assisted by Mrs. George Mead, Mrs. O. B. Smith and Mrs. Andrew Keefe, gave an interesting program.

Mrs. Mead's part consisted of excerpts from "The Home Protection Army," an article written by Frances E. Willard in 1882. Miss Willard likened the W. C. T. U. to a vast and growing net work of telegraph lines along which messages are transmitted from the central battery, the heart of the church. One of those messages is "Peace on Earth Good Will to Men." Miss Willard considered the purpose of the W. C. T. U. was to make the whole world home-like.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Keefe made reports on an article entitled, "Brought Down to Date." Continuing the thought of the telegraph lines, the idea was brought out that messages radiate from national headquarters in Washington, D. C. and make connections with local stations or units. In the state of Pennsylvania there are 800, in New Mexico nine and in Alaska there are 12. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union network is linked with Porto Rico's 39 stations and with the farthest outpost, the Philippines. This makes it possible for the organization to say "The sun never sets on the W. C. T. U."

Mrs. Guttridge gave the history and origin of the Frances E. Willard Memorial Fund. This fund is used for the organizational work at home.

The regional conference for Ulster county will be held at Newburgh in the Dutch Reformed Church, Grand avenue. This meeting will be Thursday, February 26, beginning at 10 a. m., with Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin as leader. Her assistants will be Mrs. John H. Munson, New York state W. C. T. U. peace director. Her assistants will be Mrs. John H. Munson, New York state W. C. T. U. peace director; Mrs. Ethel R. Whitwell, editor of "Women's Temperance Work"; and Miss Cora Andrus Pierson, alcohol education specialist. A delegation from the Kingston unit will attend the conference.

Pastoral Assistant Speaks at 'Y. W.'

The Rev. John Muilenburg, associate pastor at Fair Street Reformed Church, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Business Girls' Club at the Y. W. C. A. this afternoon. Since this week is Brotherhood Week he chose this topic as his theme.

The Rev. Mr. Muilenburg illustrated his talk with personal experiences in dealing with the refugees. He was minister for these groups prior to coming to Kingston. He said that the refugee problem will become even greater after the war and should be carefully considered. People should make plans for handling the situation.

Next week the regular supper meeting will be omitted. On Thursday evening, the members of the club will be the guests of the Women's Club at a Pan American Forum.

The Rev. Mr. Muilenburg also spoke to the combined groups of the Happy Go Lucky, Cheerio and Walkkill clubs. At this meeting he addressed the group on the "Contributions of the Negro Race to Civilization." The various clubs also presented short skits and a social hour was enjoyed. About 75 were in attendance.

ROGER H. LOUGHRAN

Roger H. Loughran will speak on Latin America at the combined meeting of the Women's Club and the Business Girls of the Y. W. C. A., Thursday evening, February 26, at 8 p. m. Mr. Loughran, who resides in Hurley, practiced law in Buenos Aires for four years.

He was born in Kingston, where he now practices law, and has also practiced in New York city. During the first world war, he was in command of a submarine.

During the years he lived in Latin America, he visited Brazil, Uruguay and many other countries about which he will speak. He will tell about the customs and interests of the people, the geographical characteristics of the country and conditions under which the people live. Mr. Loughran will recount his visits to Sugar Loaf Mountain, the beautiful harbor of Rio de Janeiro, the pampas of Argentina and other places of interest.

In conjunction with Mr. Loughran's talk on Latin America, and to foster interest in these countries, Clarence L. Dumm, principal of Kingston High School, will show according to the committee the first and only technicolor and sound pictures ever shown in the United States of the interior of the Republic of Colombia. The film is entitled, "Coffee the Pride of Colombia."

Men guests of the members are invited to attend this meeting. There will be refreshments served by the executive committee.

Social Events For Red Cross In 1917

With special drives being made for Red Cross work in 1917, the other charities at home were being neglected. One of these worthy projects was the Day Nursery which at that time took care of on an average of 12 children for five days a week. The increased cost of food and materials with which to work made it doubly hard for the organization to thrive.

The ladies of the Monday Afternoon Sewing Group, therefore, took it upon themselves to sponsor a dance on behalf of the group. Plans were made to make the dance one of the finest social functions of the year.

Yarn was expensive and the Red Cross asked the women to purchase and donate knitted garments for the work. Knitted articles were especially needed by the submarine crews and since the government had not provided any special uniform for these men, the necessity for warm clothing was evident. Even the men were urged to contribute money for the purchase of yarn and slogans were seen reading, "We women will knit up all the yarn that you men will pay for."

After the excitement of the May Day exercises had subsided at the high school, the students decided to hold a Community Night. In this way people of the whole community were the guests of the pupils at an evening of entertainment and demonstration. In addition the young men of the upper classes were chosen to guide visitors through the building explaining various points of interest. For identification they wore bands of maroon and white ribbons on their sleeves.

At 8 o'clock a half-hour musical program was given in the auditorium. It included:

Recitation with accompaniment, "That Old Sweetheart of Mine" Miss Alberta Silkworth, accompanied by Miss Esther Rodie.

Piano solo, Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C sharp Minor," Miss Esther Rodie.

Vocal solos, "An Irish Love Song," "Ah Si les Fleurs Avaient les Yeux," "When the Land was White With Moonlight," by Miss Ruth Shafer.

The special departments of the school were open for inspection with demonstrations of sewing in the home making department. These classes had spent most of their time making articles such as bandages, slings, bed shirts, pajamas, and ambulance pillows for the Red Cross. The funds to purchase the materials had been given by the Junior Audubon Society of the school, and the graduating class had already voted to donate any surplus funds to be turned over to Red Cross work.

In the woodworking department were students at work on their projects. A display of cabinets, drawing boards, tea wagons, and two dozen hand made looms was open. The boys had completed the carpentry work on the cabinets and were finishing and trimming their articles.

The art classes exhibited posters and pieces of work which they had made in school. Another interesting event was the pie making exhibition where several of the girls from the cooking classes fully explained the steps in making a superb chocolate pie. Those who were lucky enough to have front seats received samples of the pies.

From 8:30 to 11 o'clock, dancing was held in the "gym" admission being 25 cents per couple. The orchestra played fascinating arrangements of waltzes, one steps and trots.

All of the proceeds from the dancing and sale of candy and refreshments was donated to the Red Cross Work.

SHOULD CHILD BE TAUGHT TO USE KNIFE AND FORK AT SAME TIME?

It seems to me that not even the preoccupations, apprehensions, responsibilities or whatever other disturbing elements have been created by war, can excuse any parents' neglect of the manners of the youngest members of the family. This is in reply to a mother whose questions I am going to repeat, with my answers following:

(1) Should a young child be taught to use his knife and fork at the same time, the way I know Europeans do?

Answer: Yes, as soon as he is able to use two implements dexterously. That is, when he is old enough to cut a slice of meat, he should hold a fork in his left hand. He may then lift on his fork to his mouth the small piece of meat that has been cut off. Or he may equally well be taught to cut several pieces and then transfer the fork to his right hand and eat the pieces alternately with the vegetables. To cut a piece at a time and transfer the fork to his right hand in order to eat each mouthful is to eat with a stutter. Usually called "zig-zag" eating.

(2) May he use the blade of the knife held in the left hand as a sort of pusher for last bites that slide over the plate? Or would it be better to teach him to use a small piece of bread instead?

Answer: This is a moot question. Many people whose table manners and social knowledge are both of the very best, do exactly this. But they do it easily as well as briefly and therefore inconspicuously. Some people think the piece of bread is wrong, but it is not, if it is a small edge of crust, and not a soft, soppy piece of bread.

The knife as a pusher is very practical for people who eat no bread and who therefore must use the knife blade or else leave an appreciable amount of food uneaten. The futility of chasing peas or julienne potatoes or finely diced carrots, etc., over to the rim of the plate may be the reason for the belief that the last few bites should be left on the plate "for manners." I never thought of it before, but it sounds very reasonable.

(3) Should a mother insist upon a child who is 7, keeping his left hand off the table and in his lap while eating with his right hand?

Answer: Not except as part of his training. Generally a child has something in his left hand so that he has to keep it near the edge of his plate. When he is little he has his pusher in his left hand. Also he needs his two hands to hold his glass, or his mug. When he has graduated from a pusher, he usually has a piece of bread or cracker in his left hand.

(5) Should a small boy be pushed for bad manners, or isn't it more important that he should enjoy his meals even if his table manners are not all that could be hoped for?

Answer: I think he should be allowed to enjoy his meals and not be nagged. A little showing, how, and then letting him practise without interference, means that his table manners will be naturally good while he is very young. Only when he is deliberately careless and persists in not doing what he can easily do, would you have to keep after him. (Temporary carelessnesses are usually best not noticed—unless continued or extreme).

Seed Costs Are Cut 50 Per Cent By Group Buying

Rural families who are short of money but who want to raise Food-for-Freedom this year were urged today to pool their seed orders through group purchasing associations to save money and obtain the best seeds of all varieties.

Fred J. Kirchner, Jr., county supervisor for the Farm Security Administration, said that the experience of F.S.A. borrowers in Sullivan and Ulster counties during recent years has proved conclusively that the cost of seed can be cut 50 per cent through cooperative buying.

"All farm people and most families living on the edge of towns will want to help in the national 'Food-for-Freedom' program by raising and canning at least enough food for family use. Department of Agriculture experience shows that it is possible for a family of five to save as much as $200 of their yearly food bill with a well-planned vegetable garden," Mr. Kirchner said.

"The success of any garden depends largely on the quality of seed used. Because of shortages it is especially important this year to get the best. Higher seed prices this year make the need for cooperative savings even greater," Mrs. Kirchner added.

F.S.A. borrowers in Sullivan and Ulster counties have already organized a purchasing association and are now asking for bids on the combined garden seed needs of the members. Each member has agreed to buy and plant a large variety of seed because a variety of vegetables improves diet," Mr. Kirchner said.

"Every rural family with gardening experience and a plot of fertile ground can contribute to an American victory over the Axis by growing more food for family use. The government considers increased food production by small farmers, part-time farmers, and rural people generally so important that through the Farm Security Administration it stands ready to finance those who are unable to obtain credit from other sources.

"Hard-pressed farm people can secure F.S.A. loans to help them participate in purchasing associations or to make outright purchase of needed gardening supplies. The important thing is to get every farm and country place into full war production right away. At a time like this there is no excuse for the farm family which depends on others for the food it needs," Mr. Kirchner said.

Men's Club Holds Annual Dinner at Reformed Church

About 235 Men Present to Hear E. R. Van Vliet and D. V. Hock Give Talks

Speakers at the annual dinner of the Men's Club of the First Reformed Church, held in the lecture room of the church Thursday night demonstrated that the committee in charge had made a happy choice, providing a combination of the serious and humorous that greatly pleased the audience of about 235 men who attended the affair.

The first speaker, a prominent industrialist who represented the National Association of Manufacturers, was Earl R. Van Vliet of New York. His introductory remarks showed that he was far from being lacking in a sense of humor, but the larger part of his talk was devoted to facts and figures showing the part industry is playing in the scheme of national defense and the prosecution of the war.

He was followed by Donald V. Hock, a well known attorney of Allentown, Pa., who was heard with pleasure in Kingston a year or so ago, when he spoke before the Kiwanis Club and who added to his reputation locally by his talk Thursday night, which blended humor and the serious implications of the present emergency.

The Rev. Charles L. Palmer, former president of the club, presided during the evening and welcomed the guests to this 20th annual Washington's birthday dinner, saying that it had become an institution that becomes "better every year." He asked the men to arise for a period of silent tribute to three valued members who had died during the past year—the Hon. Philip Elting, William G. Merritt and William Vogt. He also asked the members to have in mind the crisis that is facing the country at this time and to remember the boys who are serving with the armed forces of the United States. Dr. Palmer said that the Club was sending congratulations to Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, who that evening was celebrating his birthday at his home, at the same time expressing regret that the Judge could not be present as he had on so many similar occasions in the past.

Following his remarks the guests sang two verses of the National Anthem and the invocation was given by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool.

As during all the years since this annual dinner has been carried on the ladies of the Henrietta Wynkoop Guild of the Church had arranged the tables, lighted colored candles in silver candlesticks and floral decorations adding to the pleasing effect. The ladies also served the fine and generous turkey dinner that had been prepared and saw to it that "none went away dissatisfied." To add an appropriate patriotic touch to the occasion the members of the guild wore red and white checked aprons, with blue kerchiefs. Mrs. Clifford Rose is president of the guild this year and directed the service of the dinner.

Music for the dinner was led by Paul A. Zucca, assisted by Paul Purcell, Ed. P. Ward and Dan Bittner. They sang numerous selections and led the guests in singing old time favorites and patriotic songs.

At the conclusion of the dinner a vote of thanks was given to the speakers, the ladies of the Henrietta Wynkoop Guild and to Zucca and his associates.

Hard to Keep Sense of Humor In prefacing his remarks, Mr. Van Vliet referred to a suggestion made by H. R. St. John of the speakers committee that a speaker be sent who had a "sense of humor." He said that it was a wonder if in these days there could be found in the ranks of the manufacturers one left who had a sense of humor, when, what with priorities, legislation of all kinds, labor difficulties, increasing taxes on excess profits it was necessary each morning for the manufacturer first to read his newspaper to learn under what rules he was to conduct his business during the day.

It was not until after December 7, 1941, the date of the Pearl Harbor disaster, said Mr. Van Vliet, that the people became convinced that the war effort was not a "hysterical fantasy." Since then, he said, the sense of security has become dissipated and people have been learning things about the Japs, about the navy, the army, etc. We can no longer speak in generalities about having "The best navy, the best army, the best flyers," but must speak of something more concrete.

Great Industrial Machine If there is one preponderant advantage which the United States possesses, said the speaker, it is its great industrial machine and its potentialities. The battle for freedom will be won or lost in the factories, the speaker declared and with the Axis powers having a six-year start, the United States must reach a two and a half to one ratio to outproduce them. He, nevertheless, expressed a feeling of confidence, and also paid a tribute to the members of the armed forces of the United States, whose bravery had been shown at Wake Island and in the Philippines.

Mr. Van Vliet recited a long list of the supplies necessary today to equip a mechanized division of 12,000 men. Bravery is not enough, he said; our soldiers must have the proper equipment and if that is to be provided we must all work together—squabbles over wages, profits, dividends and union advantages must be laid aside.

The speaker referred to the years during which manufacturers of munitions and war equipment were called "merchants of death" and as a result of which plants capable of producing the supplies so much needed today were destroyed, abandoned or dismantled. As a result of the attitude taken and the prosperity of the country he found that Americans had become smug and soft. As late as the summer of 1940, he said, national leaders were not indicating the seriousness of the situation and the people were told that it was not like that of 1917 when an army of four million men was raised.

Then came the awakening and the demand for planes, tanks, guns and equipment of all kinds in hitherto unbelievable amounts. Mr. Van Vliet gave in detail some of the herculean tasks that already had been accomplished by industry as it strove to meet the increasing demands, with over 4,000 plants built or being built, the great automobile plants overhauled and changed to manufacture war equipment and the shipyards two years ahead on the plan to build a two-ocean navy.

"Our industrial effort should be far in excess of anything our opponents can do," said Mr. Van Vliet. It was a tribute to industry that despite lack of unity, lack of concentration and cooperation in the past, so much had been accomplished. In conclusion the speaker found that the United States is facing a period of consumer rationing in all articles used in the war effort. He said that it was necessary that the people should be animated by a new and different spirit, with the war going against us and "Chancy dancing while the Japs are advancing."

It means sacrifice, dislocation and regimentation, he said, adding that we may not get all our rights back at the conclusion of the war.

Discusses Ways of Life Attorney Donald V. Hock, who suggested that he "knew people as Van Vliet knew machines," discussed interestingly the philosophy of life that has prevailed in this country, some of its weaknesses and shortcomings and the effect that the war will have upon our way of living.

"We went on a rampage at the end of World War No. 1 and for the past few years we have worked with the idea that the bigger our pile of worldly goods the happier we would be," said the speaker, as he declared that the present world conflict was causing us to totally reevaluate the things of life. The building of "a type of character and personality that we will need after the war" was seen as the important thing now.

"Only the intangible things of life are enduring," said Mr. Hock as he asked "what has Europe left today but the intangibles?" We must be working on the souls, character and minds of people, while we are working on machines, it was declared as reference was made to the fact that the youth of Germany was being "taught to hate," and the people of Japan were being taught that if they cannot conquer at this time the next generation will do the job.

"We must rededicate our lives to the principles of George Washington," said Mr. Hock; there must be evolved a philosophy of renunciation; there must be a getting back to the fundamentals and the placing of first things first, if we are going to save civilization today.

There has been too much shallow thinking in the past, said the speaker; we must start thinking all over again. He referred to the fact that the tires on his car were getting thin and said that when they gave out he would jack up the car in the garage and spend more time in his home where "I will meet for the first time some of the greatest people that ever lived (alluding to the great figures who adorn the pages of history)." He found that this enforced new way of life would have its compensations.

Mr. Hock quoted from Oliver Wendell Holmes' famous poem, "The One Hoss Shay," which lasted for 100 years and then fell apart all at once, as he said that for more than 150 years the people of this country have been using the vehicles built by the men of George Washington's day and "riding on their glory."

"We must get out their blueprints and build according to the needs of our time," said the speaker. He found that the Declaration of Independence, the U. S. Constitution and the Monroe Doctrine which during the years had protected us, now needed our protection.

In closing Mr. Hock urged that behind the fine determination of the men who faced there be an impelling motive to give to "all people, for all time, the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Two Per Cent Tax Limitation Move Hit by Taxpayers

A resolution in effect opposing certain provisions of the city's tax limitation measure was adopted last night by members of the Kingston Taxpayers' Association at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The resolution points out that "while not wishing to penalize the schools," it regrets the "hasty action" of the Common Council in making a move and endorsing a bill which might prove extremely costly to the taxpayers unless it includes a provision which would prevent the cost of operations of the city, other than the schools, to exceed the two per cent tax limitation.

A final clause in the resolution asked that a provision be made "to hold the general expenditures at an amount not to exceed the level normally attained when educational costs were included in the general budget."

Stresses War

At its beginning the resolution pointed out that inasmuch as "America is engaged in a great struggle which demands our entire support and sacrifice, on the part of all, officials and taxpayers alike, and to which every dollar possible belongs in the defense of our country and must go towards winning this war," that such steps as proposed in the resolution should be taken in the interest of the taxpayers.

The resolution referred to the recent petitioning by the Common Council of the state legislature for exemption from the two per cent tax limitation imposed by the provisions of an amendment to the state constitution.

The bill provides in part as follows: the amount hereafter to be raised by tax for county or city purposes, in addition to providing for the principal and interest of the county or city debt, shall not in the aggregate, exceed in any one year two per centum of the assessed valuation of the real and personal estate of such county or city.

The taxpayers further point out that they feel "there should be no increase of expenditures until all possible waste, inefficiencies and duplication are eliminated." They pointed out also that it is their belief that "even should it be proved true that the educational department must be exempt from the two per cent tax limitation in order to secure additional funds, the bill drawn does not give sufficient safeguards against unrestricted additional spending in other departments."

Citing a hypothetical illustration the taxpayers assumed that the two per cent tax limitation is $300,000, of which schools spend $50,000. Exempting the schools, they explain, "would take them out from under the tax limitation and give no additional 'ceiling' and also since the two per cent limitation would still be in effect for other expenditures, would permit the city's general fund to be increased by the amount formerly allowed the schools under the former limitations."

Tires From Any Dealer

Albany, Feb. 20.—In an effort to clear up what he termed a widespread misunderstanding, State Rationing Director Maurice F. Neufeld today again stressed the fact that tire purchase certificates entitled the holder to make his purchase from any tire dealer in the state. Director Neufeld said, many persons apparently still believe they must purchase tires from the inspector who certified their need for them. "This is emphatically not so," the State Director declared. "Once a certificate has been issued, it can be used by the legal holder to purchase the tires or tubes for which it calls from any supplier he chooses."

Employment Offices to Remain Open Monday

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 20.—Because of the vast demands of our war production program, all offices of the United States Employment Service will be open on Monday, February 23, it was announced today by Richard C. Brockway, director of the Employment Service for New York state.

"Thousands of employees who will be observing Washington's birthday will have an opportunity to get their name on register with our offices," said Mr. Brockway. "I refer particularly to those workers who possess skills useful to the war production program and who are not using those skills in their present job. Hundreds of new jobs are opening up in our vital industries every day and our war effort demands the complete cooperation of every available man and woman."

"All of our offices will be fully staffed and the usual office hours
